HIGH TEUTON OFFICER SLAIN

Comment by Chester H. Rowell

STATE SENATORS BY COUNTIES—Initiative petitions are in circulation for the co-called "Windrem plan" limiting the counties of California, big and little alike, to one state senator each.

Of course the measure will not pass since the populous counties have votes enough to beat it, even if all the votes in the small counties were for it. Also, the analogy on which it is based is not sound.

States have equal representation in the United States senate because they are sovereignties. Counties are not sovereignties. So long as we have two houses, and both of them represent the people of geographic units, we are not likely to improve on the present plan.

* * * *

BUT if we really do want something different, why not take a leaf out of the new constitution of Ireland?

The new Irish senate is not to represent people or districts at all, but frankly "interests and institutions." Each university is to have two senators. Fifty-six more are to be elected at large, by proportional representation. Parliament is to provide a method of nomination, by groups or interests, so that the senate shall be composed of "citizens who have done honor to the nation by reason of useful public service, or who, because of special qualifications or attainments, represent important aspects of the nation's life."

This would mean, in California, a senate composed of perhaps three groups, chosen probably in three different ways. First would be, besides the representatives of the universities, expert specialists on certain governmental problems, and a number of generally distinguished citizens. Second would be ex-officio representatives of organized interests, as, for instance, the heads of the State Federation of Labor, the State Federation of Women's Clubs, Farm Bureau Federation, Associated Chambers of Commerce, bar and medical associations, state teachers' and editorial associations, State Engineering Society, the chairmen of the party committees, and the like. Third would be persons elected at large, by proportional representation, from whatever groups could muster united votes enough to elect them.

* * * *

THUS the Assembly would represent the people, by districts directly; the governor and his cabinet (he should have a cabinet) would represent centralized responsibility and leadership; and the senate would represent groups, interests, institutions, specialized knowledge and outstanding personality.

If this were a mere fantastic invention, caught by some highbrow out of thin air, it might not attract much attention. But whatever is good Irish politics is at least possible American politics. Here is the thing actually accomplished in Ireland. So it may be at least discussed in America.

* * * *

WHY GROW OLD?—Why worry about the passing of youth? Even fashion has abolished age. We all wear the same clothes, have the same amusements, and live much the same life. The chimney-corner is extinct. What said Goethe a hundred years ago?

"Und immer ist der Mann ein junger Mann, Der einem jungen Weibe wohlgefaellt."

"He is still a young man who is pleasing to a young woman.' And conversely she is still a young woman who finds favor in the sight of a man of any age. As men become more civilized, that age increases. Puliet was fourteen, Faust's Margaret was "over fourteen." The heroines of our grandmother's romances were sweet sixteen. The modern movies, being subnormal, make it about twenty, but the intelligent novelist scarcely begins his interest before twenty-five.

And so in actual life. Your girl of 25 has just had a year or two to rub the college freshness off. At 30 she is more feminine than at 20, and at 35 you just begin to realize how charming she is. At 40 she knows enough to be a congenial companion. And beyond that nature places no limit—only discontent, idleness and failure.

The woman doing something worth while grows old no sooner than a man. There are men old at 40 and women young at 60. It is all a question of the golden mean, between wearing out and rusting out. The mother, young with her children; the bachelor maid, young with her work, her enthusiasms and her companions; the man of any age "in whom any young woman is pleased," because he has retained the qualities pleasing to youth—these are all perennially young and can laugh at age. It is time enough to be old when their birth dates are graven on their tombstones. And then they will carry young souls into the Hereafter.

BOYCOTTING GERMAN—Here is a note that should interest those who are still boycotting the German language and object to restoring its teaching to the California high schools.

The Educational Foundation of the Commission for Relief in Belgium has appointed two students from Belgium for graduate study in the University of California, the first of whom is officially presented as follows:

"Miss Germaine Collette, who has won her first doctorate with greatest distinction in Teutonic languages."

PNEUMONIA FATAL TO OIL MAN

Short Illness Results In Passing of Oil Baron's Brother

WAS PROMINENT IN STANDARD OIL FIRM

Visit to Birthplace Believed to Have Brought On Illness

(United Press Leased Wire)

NORTH TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 24. — William Rockefeller, brother of John D., died of pneumonia here early today. He had been ill one week.

Five physicians were in attendance, when Rockefeller, one of the richest men in the world, expired at his home, Rockwell Hall, only a short distance from the estate of his brother at Pocantico Hills.

The dying man retained consciousness until the end and recognized all those in the sick room.

Makes Hard Fight

Pneumonia, which developed from a cold which the brother of the oil king contracted during the rainy weather, which has prevailed recently, caused his death. He was 81 years old, two years younger than John D. Rockefeller, and despite his great age fought hard for life.

William Rockefeller when taken ill, was having a $250,000 mausoleum built in Sleepy Hollow cemetery from his own plans and under his personal direction.

Rockefeller's illness followed a visit to his old home town, Ridgeford, N. Y., where he and John D. went to look over the places where they had played as boys. It was the first time they had been in the town since they were children.

Tramp Boyhood Paths

Both William and John, two of the wealthiest men in the world, tramped over the paths they used to tread, and even attempted to engage in some of the old time romps they enjoyed as boys. In this trip they traveled 700 miles by automobile and the effort, it is believed, may have weakened William Rockefeller and made him more easily susceptible to the disease which ended his life.

On June 15 they returned from this trip and two days later William Rockefeller was exposed to the rain. He caught cold. Last Monday Dr. Herman Biggs, one of the best New York specialists, diagnosed his ailment as pneumonia.

The case was not thought critical, however, and was in fact so light at first that John D. Rockefeller visited his brother's house for a business conference last Monday night.

Takes Turn For Worse

Labor Federation Votes Down Resolution for Recognition of Russia

CINCINNATI, O., June 24.—The American Federation of Labor today decisively rejected a resolution demanding United States recognition of the Russian Soviets. A resolution condemning the Bolsheviki and endorsing the United States governments' policy was then adopted.

In the closing moments of debate, Max Hayes, Cleveland, one of the authors of the resolution demanding Russian recognition, read a telegram from Senator Borah, Idaho, declaring that American trade with Russia was impossible unless the Russian government was recognized.

Further Borah said, European peace and disarmament could not occur as long as Russia remains an outlaw nation.

Sine die adjournment was expected late in the day.

JURORS FREE GOVERNOR IN GRAFT TRIAL

WAUKEGAN, Ills., June 24.—Governor Len Small today was acquitted of charges of conspiracy to defraud the state of huge sums of money.

A jury in Lake county circuit court returned the verdict of "not guilty."

The jury deliberated one hour and thirty minutes in reaching the verdict.

The prosecution attempted to prove that the governor, while serving as state treasurer, conspired with Vernon and Edward C. Curtis to obtain interest on state funds through loans to Chicago packers through the Grant Park bank.

The governor contended the prosecution was backed by his political enemies, aided by the "traction ring" and others who he had opposed.

VALLEY POLICE WAR ON LABOR AGITATORS

CALEXICO, Cal., June 24.—Work or get out of town, is the dictum of Chief of Police Worthington of Calexico and Chief Dave Matlock of El Centro, following the arrest of four men, accused of agitation among laborers and canteloupe pickers of the region.

Shortage of labor this year has been greatly increased by alleged radical agitation among the pickers, according to authorities who have announced that these activities must be eradicated from the district.

Lack of labor in both cities has caused police to check up on available men, who are being offered from 36 to 40 cents per hour. Refusal of men to accept these terms has faced ranchers with the possibility of having to divert a large share of the ripening melons destined for the East to Los Angeles and other immediate markets, it is said.

SPRINGS SENSATION IN OBENCHAIN CASE

(United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Madalynne Obenchain's defense, staggering from a blow from within its ranks, had until Monday to reorganize its plans on the basis of the testimony that injected a new lover into Madalynne's history, and faced the defense with the problem of repudiating a definite charge of "frame up."

A breathless courtroom yesterday listened to the amazing narrative of Paul Roman, once the star witness for Arthur Burch, who declared on the stand that Madalynne had extracted a promise from him to appear for her and give evidence corroborating her story of John Belton Kennedy's death.

Roman's story was briefly this:

He met Mrs. Obenchain at Venice on the beach shortly before the Kennedy murder and they flirted, spending "days on the sands, dreaming and planning."

Later he was arrested and frequently met Mrs. Obenchain in the halls of the county jail. They had several opportunities to talk and, at Madalynne's suggestion, he agreed to testify falsely that he had talked with two men who declared they were going to blackmail Kennedy and "bump him off," if he failed to pay.

This was to substantiate Mrs. Obenchain's declaration that Kennedy was shot by "two ragged men."

Later Roman became fearful that he would be confused on the witness stand, and decided to refuse to testify. He made a "clean breast" of the story to the Folsom warden, who notified the prosecution.

Roman' handsome and well groomed, spoke in the crude slang of the convict, which presented a striking contrast to the style of the grammatical flights in the messages alleged to have been written him by Madalynne.

"I got scared and squealed to the warden," was one of Roman's remarks on the stand.

The court granted the defense's request for an adjournment until Monay, as Madalynne, heavy eyed and almost fainting, was removed to her cell.

MAN, 70, DROWNS IN BEAR LAKE

SOLDIERS READY TO ENTER MINE ZONE AS NEW CLASH LOOMS

HERRIN, Ills., June 24.—Troops will be ordered nito the Williamson county mine war district on completion of an investigation by a military committee sent here by Governor Small, it was indicated today.

The military board today viewed the scene of Wednesday's battle in which twenty-two were killed.

Headquarters were opened at Herrin and newspaper editors, officials and others called to tell of conditions. The dnager of further rioting, was emphasized by several witnesses.

Reports will probably be forwarded to the governor tonight and the general belief here is that the one thousand men under arms in Chicago armories will move into the district early next week.

Fear of further damage to mine property through pumpers deserting their posts under threats from strikers proved unfounded. Hugh Willis, district board members, said the pumpers would remain on duty and if necessary the union would assign guards to protect them.

Curious crowds of spectators continued to flock to the morgue where seventeen bullet riddled bodies remain unclaimed and more than half unidentified. No sympathy is heard for the dead. Herrin and Williamson county regard the massacre as the natural results of efforts of the operators to work the mines in violation of an agreement not to ship coal for commercial purposes.

Trouble is feared when funerals of the victims are held.

Most of the bodies will not be claimed. Many of the slain were transient laborers who long ago gave up family connections and their final resting place will be the potters field.

Announcement that the Southern Illinois Coal company, which owned the mine where strike breakers were employed, would bring suits aggregating $1,000,000 for damages against the county and the miners' union, stirred the union minors to new hatred.

Solon Denounces Labor For Alleged Part In Illinois Mine War

P 1 SEC A—SOLON DENOUNC

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Labor unions were bitterly denounced for their part in the Herrin, Illinois, mine war in a fiery speech in the senate today by Senator Myers, Montana.

"The atrocities at Herrin, when union laborers attacked men who had been brought to work the mines, were more horrible, more shocking than any committed by Germany in the World War," Myers charged.

"A free America does not exist any more. Today an honest workman who does not belong to the labor unions is not able to earn an honest living without first getting consent of an organized minority, which has decreed that no man in America shall work without its permission."

FIST BATTLE FOR 33 CENTS PROVES FATAL

Portland Man, 64, Dies Following Fight With Clerk, 22; Later Facing Arrest.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 24.—A man is dead here as the result of a fist fight over thirty-three cents.

Edward Cushmore, [illegible], a piano polisher for a music house, died early this morning and George Kern, 22, a bookkeeper for the same company, is being held by the authorities, facing a probable charge of manslaughter.

Cushmore last Monday complained to Kern because of an alleged discrepancy of thirty-three cents in his pay check. According to Kern's story, he resented Cushmore's censure and the older man challenged him to a fight. Cushmore was floored by a blow from Kern's fist, and had lingered near death for nearly a week.

ALLEGE PASTOR IN $100,000 FRAUD PLOT

(United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Donald Stewart, when arrested on charges of bigamy and embezzlement was engaged in an attempt to induce a wealthy New York woman, whose winter home was in Sierra Madre, to marry him, authorities declared they had learned today.

Stewart, who is accused of bigamous marriages with four women, was about to collect $100,000 to invest for this woman, she admitted to detectives, it is said. She said she had known Stewart in New York and believed him to be a member of a well known business firm. She said that since Stewart came to Sierra Madre he had posed as a single man and had urged her to obtain a divorce from her husband and marry him. At the same time he was living with Ethel Osbaldeston, his second wife.

Authorities declined to reveal the name of the woman in Sierra Madre. No charges will be placed against Stewart in this connection, however. Boston officers are expected to leave for the coast today, and extradition papers are being prepared for turning Stewart and Mrs. Osbaldeston over to the prosecutors in the Eastern city.

4 ESCAPE DEATH AS MOTORBOAT HITS STUMP, TURNS OVER

Details of a motorboat tragedy on Big Bear lake, in which A. A. Bennett, 70, of Orange, lost his life, and four other persons, including a little girl aged 2½ years, narrowly escaped death from drowning, became known here today, following the arrival of Bennett's body at 8 a. m. at Orange, where funeral arrangements were to be made.

Bennett was drowned when the boat, in which he was riding with Mrs. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Pixley, Orange, and little Rosalie De Jacoby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur De Jacoby, Orange, struck a submerged stump and capsized.

All save Bennett clung to the bottom of the overturned craft and were rescued within three minutes by persons in nearby boats.

Begins to Swim.

Bennett began swimming toward shore. His struggles were unavailing, however, and he sank for the last time before assistance could be given him.

The tragedy occurred at 10:30 a. m. yesterday, it was learned. Boat [illegible] with grappling hooks were summoned from Baldwin lake. Bennett's body was recovered an hour after the accident.

Coroner J. B. Hannah of San Bernardino county conducted an inquest at Big Bear lake at 10 o'clock last night. Death was due to accidental drowning, the coroner's jury decided.

Bennett's body is at the undertaking establishment of Claude N. Ellis, Orange. Definite arrangements for the funeral were being delayed pending receipt of word from Mrs. Bennett, who was expected to arrive at Orange before night.

Guests of Pixleys.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett had been guests of the Pixleys at their cabin at the lake for the past week.

Witnesses of the tragedy testified at the inquest to the effect that the boat after it struck the stump balanced uncertainly for seevral seconds. One of the women passengers, witnesses said, stood up and began to scream. The craft then capsized.

Much comment was heard after the accident regarding the remarkable coolness exhibited by the little De Jacoby girl, who clung to the side of the overturned boat and thereby saved herself from drowning.

Bennett was formely an instructor in chemistry at Ames Agricultural college, Ames, Ia. He and Mrs. Bennett came to Orange nine years ago. They resided at 810 West La Veta avenue.

De Jacoby is the leader of the choir at the Christian church, Orange.

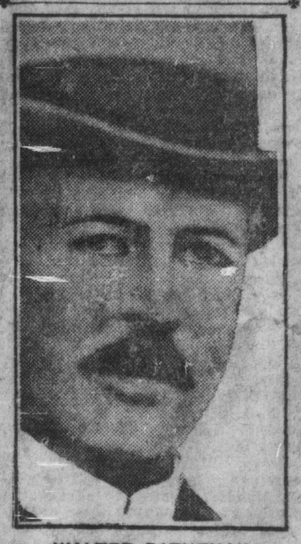

WORKER CRUSHED TO DEATH UNDER PIPES

SAN PEDRO, June 24.—James Heron, 45, a longshoreman, was crushed to death and half a dozen other dock workers had a narrow escaped this morning when a one-ton load of steel pipes being unloaded from the steamer Santa Eulalia got out of control of the ship's winch driver and crashed to the dock at Wilmington. Heron was buried under the load and his body was extricated with great difficulty.

Assassin's Bullet Kills Opponent of Monarchist Faction

WALTER RATHENAU

Minister of foreign affairs in the German cabinet who was slain today by two assassins who first threw hand grenades into his automobile and then turned their guns on him, filling his head with lead. Rathenau was hated by the monarchist group because of his opposition to the return of the Hohenzollerns to power in Germany.

MONARCHISTS ARE ACCUSED IN SLAYING

Socialists Demand Workers be Armed to Resist Uprising as Rathenau is Slain.

BERLIN, June 24.—Assassination of Foreign Minister Walter Rathenau today was the signal for a country-wide attempt to overthrow the government tonight, leaders of the independents in the Reichstag warned.

The city was thrown into a turmoil, the communists demanding immediate arming of the workmen to resist a monarchist uprising. Majority socialists urged dissolution of the officers leagues, and re-organization of the Reichwehr.

The assassination evidently had been carefully planned. In some quarters the officers leagues were held responsible. It was also pointed out that acquittal of the suspected slayers of Mathias Erzberger had encouraged political murders.

LONDON, June 24.—Rathenau's assassination rejuvenated rumors of the possibility of a reactionary "puttsch' (reactionary revolt), according to news dispatches received from Berlin today.

This message is particularly significant, taken in connection with the rumors from Copenhagen that martial law had been declared in Berlin. If martial law has been declared in Berlin, it is very possible that the censorship would prevent the news of the fact from being known for several hours.

REPORT 16 MISSING IN OCEAN DISASTER

HALIFAX, N. S., June 24.—Sixteen were missing today in the wreck of the schooner Puritan.

The Puritan, from Gloucester, Mass., went ashore off Sable Island last night. She was entered in the international fishermen's race. According to word received here from Superintendent Henry of Sable Island, all the crew took off in life boats.

The captain and seven men landed safely at the island, Henry reported, but sixteen men, in two boats, have not been accounted for.

SUSPECT MALE VAMP IN BEAUTY'S DEATH

FREEPORT, N. Y., June 24.—William Creasy of Covington, Ky., charged with murdering Miss Edith Lavoy, pretty school teacher, was investigated today by police as a male vampire.

Just as he was arrested, following the shooting of Miss Lavoy in the parlor of her home here, a book was found in Creasy's pocket in which were the names of twenty women living in different parts of the state.

"She committed suicide," Creasy screamed as several persons burst into the parlor shortly after hearing the revolver sho[illegible]

The body of Miss Lavoy lay on the couch, a bullet hole in the head. One arm hung over the edge of the sofa and a revolver lay partly on the floor, and held lightly in her dead fingers.

Creasy is accused of shooting the girl and then arranging her body to make it look as if she had killed herself.

Police today found in the backyard of the house fragments of Creasey's love letters to Miss Lavoy.

A plea of not guilty was made for him, and he was jailed in the Mineola prison.

ASSASSINS USE HAND GRENADE

Walter Rathenau, Foreign Affairs Minister, Victim of Killers

WAS OPPONENT OF MONARCHIST GROUP

Murders Turn Guns on Dead Man; Government Fears New Crisis

By CARL D. GROAT,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, June 24.—Walter Rathenau, minister of foreign affairs was killed today by assassins, who threw a hand grenade and then opened fire with revolvers. The assassins, dashing past in an automobile, escaped.

The attack occurred in the Bismarkstrasse, just after Hathenau had left his home in the Gruenwald, a suburb near Potsdam, on his way to his office.

Eye witnesses said Rathenau's automobile was in a lonely locality and was approaching a corner at reduced speed when another automobile came up carrying the assassins. After the attack Rathenau fell to the floor of his car and the assassins drove rapidly away.

Hated by Monarchists

Rathenau ranked with Hugo Stinnes as one of the strongest men in Germany. He incurred the hatred of the monarchists by his activities in the government of Chancellor Wirth. As leader of the German delegation at the recent Genoa conference, he negotiated the treaty with Soviet Russia, which was bitterly opposed by the allies.

Large bodies of police, formed in flying squadrons, searched the city for the assassins. Many homes and gathering places of known enemies of the government were entered. A cordon was thrown around the district where the murder occurred and all who passed were questioned. Efforts also were made to trace the automobile used by the slayer.

Cabinet Members Meet

The cabinet met today and immediately adjourned. Several of the ministers were weeping as they left the room.

An eye witness told the United Press of the attack. He said the assassins were masked.

As their motor car came alongside the foreign minister, they simultaneously hurled hand grenades and then began firing their pistols, he declared. Eight bullets struck Rathenau in the head.

Socialists swarmed around former Chancellor Helfferich.

"You're the murderer," they cried.

Some of the Socialists grabbed Helfferich by the collar as they accused him of responsibility for the assassin. He left at once.

The cabinet was called into session and unanimously approved Chancellor Wirth's suggestion that the utmost steps must be taken to protect the Republican government against further attacks.

Last night his condition became very critical, but he rallied from the relapse retaining full control of his faculties.

Much anxiety was feld during the night and John D., at his adjoining estate, was kept informed of his brother's condition. Toward morning William sank rapidly and died at 6:45 a. m.

John D was immediately notified and hurried to his brother's house.

Among those at the bedside when the end came were William Rockefeller's children, Mrs. Marcelue Hartley Dodge, Percy A. Rockefeller, William G. Rockefeller and Mrs. D. Hunter McAlphin. His wife died two years ago.

Active In Business

William Rockefeller had been in poor health for a number of years as a result of an operation for throat trouble. However, he maintained an active interest in the vast financial enterprises of himself and his brother and frequently participated in the most important business conferences in the financial world. He was head of the interests of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey in New York from 1865 to 1911.

He was born at Ridgeford, Tioga county, N. Y., May 31, 1841, the son of William Avery and Eliza Rockefeller.

As a youth Rockefeller felt the pinch of poverty, working up from a poor bookkeeper to a position as

BARE Y DIRECTORATE ELECTION RESULT

Rich man, 72, lays Fraud to Daughters

FINLEY DIRECTS BOARD TO MEET HERE MONDAY

Coincidentally with the announcement today of the names of the fifteen men who will serve as a board of directors for the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. building organization, Col. S. H. Finley, chairman of the general committee directing the recent fund drive, called a meeting of the directors for Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the Y. M. C. A. office, in the First National Bank building.

The count of 814 ballots received in the voting for members of the board of directors was completed late yesterday.

Here Are Directors

W. D. Baker, J. P. Baumgartner, F. C. Blauer, Alex Brownridge, C. H. Chapman, J. A. Cranston, A. J. Crookshank, S. H. Finley, H. W. Lewis, E. B. Sprague, W. B. Tedford, L. A. West, all of Santa Ana; C. A. Miller, Tustin; H. A. Lake Garden Grove; Eugene Griset, Greenville.

Harry Hill, of Los Angeles, state secretary of boys' work, will be present Monday evening to advise the directors in perfecting their organization, which will be one of the first steps in preparation for starting activity in the development of a Y building for the city.

To Rush Organization

Legal organization will be perfected at the earliest date possible. It is probable that the legal name will be the Y. M. C. A. of Santa Ana.

The first payment on pledges made in the drive becomes due July 1. It is the desire of the directors that prompt response be made so that there may be no delay in closing preliminaries requiring finances.

It is possible that funds will be available so that building operations may be started by the first of the coming year, it was declared today.

Nate Beals was in charge of the counting of the ballots yesterday and was assisted by Misses Ruth Finley, Caroline Finley, Dorothy Forgy and Mary Gyer.

HIGHWAY TO CONNECT MOUNTAINS AND SEA

VISALIA, June 24.—Motorists may travel from the mountains to the sea over the state highway by the Fourth of July, as by that time the highway from Three Rivers to Coalinga will be completed, but for one short detour near Huron. This will be the first trans-state highway lateral in California to be so nearly completed.

To commemorate completion of this lateral construction Visalia, Hanford, Lemoore, Coalinga and lesser communities will unite in a Fourth of July celebration in Hanford. Engineer Sump of the State Highway department has moved to Three Rivers to supervise grading the first six miles of the new state road from the end of the present paving to the park line on the Hospital Rock grade. This work will be started at once.

Waikiki Lure Denied By Wife In Answer to Mate's Sailors Charges

The lure of the beach at Waikiki was nothing to Sarah Depweg, she intimated today, in her answer to her husband, Louis Depweg's suit for divorce, wherein she was accused of dancing with the sailors at Honolulu.

Mrs. Depweg's answer and cross-complaint, now on file in the superior court, denied that she neglected her home or her wifely duties. She did admit that she left her husband, but denied that she did so without cause.

"I lived through four years of h——," she declared in her reply. "Finally I did not wish to continue married life longer and I told him he could take the child and go to live with his sister in Yorba Linda."

The Depwegs were married at Fullerton but lived, later, at Huntington Beach. They have a daughter, aged 6.

Mrs. Depweg's cross-complaint charged extreme cruelty.

Besides physical abuses, she declared her husband misrepresented his financial situation when they were married and that afterwards he referred to their belongings as "mine," not "ours," she said.

Attorneys Ames and McFadden, of Anaheim, represent Mrs. Depweg.

ASSASSINS KILL NOTED GERMAN DIPLOMAT

Later he became part owner of a house in the produce commission trade. He was successful in this, his first business venture, and shortly after joined his brother, John D., in the oil business.

He rose rapidly and at his death was interested in big industrial organizations of all descriptions.

Wirth Blames French

A communique issued by the government said that Rathenau was assassinated at 10:30 this morning at Gruenwald. It stated that three men in an automobile overtook Rathenau and threw one grenade and fired ten shots. One of the shots, which struck the foreign minister in the mouth, proved fatal.

Rathenau's sister, who was accompanying her brother at the time of his assassination was uninjured.

Chancellor Wirth today, while meeting French newspapermen in the lobby of the Reichstag, said:

Was Opponent of War

The Gruenwald section of Berlin, where Rathenau was assassinated, is one of the most exclusive residential districts lying between Berlin proper and the city of Potsdam.

Rathenau was the son of the founder of the electrical trust of Germany. In his early youth he developed a great liking for educational pursuits. He studied in many different countries and from the technical and scientific point of view, was considered one of the best educated men in the world.

In an interview with a representative of the United Press last year, Dr. Rathenau insisted that he had always been opposed to the war. While he was active in the German economic administration during the war, he took the position that he could follow no other course after war actually had been declared.

Enormously Wealthy

Being enormously rich and one of the highest class of business baron, he occupied a very unique position following the war when he was called upon by Chancellor Wirth to participate as a leading member of the Republican government. His sympathies, however, were entirely with the new government and it was because of his high position in business and educational circles that he was able to exercise extraordinary influence in his new capacity. As minister of reconstruction, he directed the first work toward putting Germany together following the collapse of the army on the western front.

Rathenau was popular with the Americans. He spoke English with perfect ease and the familiarity of one who constantly uses the language. He traveled extensively in America and found much common ground for discussion while visiting American financiers and business men. He was a tall man of commanding appearance and the skilled manner of a trained diplomat.

Many Americans considered Rathenau by far the strongest man in Germany and looked upon him as the greatest influence working toward a sane solution of Germany's problems.

In Socialist Party

Rathenau was head of the German electrical trust. He and Hugo Stinnes were considered Germany's wealthiest men. Despite his great wealth he was a member of the Socialist party and it is possible his assassination was due to the monarchists.

In all his dealings with the allied governments and with his own government, Rathenau has stood for a sane and quick settlement of the reparations and indemnities problems with France. Throughout Germany's troubled times in the transition from a monarchy to a republic, Rathenau has opposed and to his death continued to oppose the return of the reactionaries to power.

$125,000 LANDS INVOLVED HERE IN LAW FIGHT

Making sensational allegations against his daughters, Hulda and Emma Meger, and charging that they "repeatedly solicitated, begged, urged and unduly influenced him to deed and convey to them all his property, aggregating $125,000, Gottleib Meger, 72, and a resident of West Anaheim, today had on file here a complaint filed by A. E. Koepsel, asking restoration of the property deeded by him to his daughters.

In the complaint, Meger alleges that his two daughters and others, referred to as "Jim Doe, Jane Doe," etc., now have possession of his property, that they have treated him cruelly, driven him from his home, and refuse to allow him to make equitable distribution of the property to his seven children, including one child who is deaf and dumb and needs support.

Says They Abused Him

Meger alleges that he was mentally and physically infirm on August 9, 1920, when the deed was made conveying valuable property near Anaheim to his daughters. It is further alleged by the plaintiff that his daughters quarreled with him and abused him because he had refused to comply with their request in connection with the distribution of the property.

Finally, the complaint alleges, "the defendants did on or about August 9, 1920, by said acts, procure and induce him to deed to them the property, in consideration of the sum of $25,000, which the defendants agreed to pay him, and said defendants also agreed to assume a mortgage of $16,000."

Says Notes Altered

Meger asserts that the defendants executed five promissory notes for the sum of $5,000, but that the notes were fraudulently altered and that he has received no consideration since the deed was executed.

The plaintiff demands the cancellation of the deed and judgment in the sum of $135,000 for the damage done him in the alleged transaction. The complaint sets forth that Meger's daughters threatened to have him committed to an asylum, unduly influenced him by alleging that he was old, infirm and mentally unable to attend to his business affairs, and finally drove him from his home after coercing him. Meger asserts that he is, and has been for some time, the owner of the property mentioned in the suit.

DISCLOSE NEW PLANS IN NASH PRODUCTION

Construction of a new plant at Milwaukee for the production of four cylinder Nash cars will not relieve the present pressure on the production of fours until next spring, according to information reaching the May Motor company, of this city, Nash distributors.

According to reports from the factory, the production is now oversold and has been for several months. The new plant was planned over a year ago, but various things have entered into conditions that caused delay in letting the contract until a few weeks ago.

"A new body and sheet metal plant, 100 by 400 feet and three stories high will add facilities that will make it possible to produce the Nash four almost in its entirety in the Milwaukee plant," said W. C May. "At present certain parts of the car are made in the Nash six plant at Kenosha.

CHEVROLET PRAISED AFTER 2 WEEKS RUN

The Chevrolet 490 model has an enthusiastic champion in Stanley F. Champion, employe of the Standard Oil company at Huntington Beach, who recently purchased a touring car of this model from the Pashley Motor company, local and Huntington Beach agents.

Champion recently passed a two-week's vacation in touring in his new car.

"We passed two weeks at Idyllwild," he said. "On the trip to San Diego, including the Torrey Pines grade, a total elevation of $5,300 feet, the car made 27 1-2 miles per gallon."

He left yesterday for Santa Barbara, where he is going to pass a few more days in camping.

CONVICT PASTOR OF MINE WAR SLAYING

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 24.—The Rev. James E. Wilburn, Baptist preacher of Blair, W. Va., today stood convicted of murder in the second degree in connection with the killing of Deputy Sheriff John Gore in the Logan county mine war last summer.

The state will try John, the pastor's son, next, also charged with murder.

MOVIE GIRLS IN RUSH TO ENTER BEACH PARADE

Fair young things—highlights in many a motion picture—were scurrying about in a mad scramble for rouge pots, powder puffs and eyebrow pencils.

The reason was "The Parade of Paris," or, in other words, the bathing girls' parade, which would have made Venus turn green with envy and which is to be held at Balboa tomorrow, beginning at 2:30 p. m.

The sea fashions spectacle will be participated in largely by young women from the film colony, it was stated.

Jewel Pathe, "the butterfly girl," will be their leader.

Some new and fetching, not to say startling, creations in surf raiment are to be exhibited, it was said.

Prizes will be awarded.

LAST TALK WITH MAN WHO DIED IN JAIL TOLD

The last words she spoke to her brother over the telephone a few moments before he died at the county jail, a victim of drink, were repeated here today by Mrs. Florence Fernald, of Los Angeles, when she testified at an inquest held at the Smith and Tuthill parlors at 10:30 a. m. over the body of Barney Carroll, 32, the brother.

Mrs. Fernald told the jury, summoned by Coroner C. D. Brown, that her brother had been drinking a great deal.

She told of having received a telephone call from him yesterday while he was a prisoner at the jail. He besought her to pay a fine of $50 which was imposed upon him in connection with a charge of drunkenness.

"I kidded him along," she testified, "'Well, Bebe hasn't anything on you,' I said."

She promised him that she would come to Santa Ana "to see what she could do," she testified.

The jury returned a verdict stating that Carroll's death was due to "embolism of the heart, following chronic alchoholism."

Testimony showed that no officials had been guilty of negligence in connection with the man's death.

Dr. J. I. Clark, who performed the autopsy, testified as to his findings. Joseph Irvine, assistant jailer, who assisted the man outdoors following the sudden attack which had overcome Carroll, told of the circumstances surrounding the incident.

SHASTA WOMAN J. P. ENFORCES "DRY" LAW

SHASTA, June 24.—Mrs. Ethel O. Blair, justice of the peace in this township, has had her first jury trial S. S. Baker was charged with violating the county's little Volstead ordinance. The jury found him guilty and Mrs. Blair fined him $300 and sentenced him to the county jail for ninety days. This was the first jury trial in Shasta for fifteen years.

MINE CLEANUP PAYS WELL IN GOLD OUTPUT

GRASS VALLEY, June 24.—Gold nuggets to the amount of two pounds were on display here as the result of a cleanup at the Malakoff mine recently. The Malkaoff is yielding well following its opening by the drift method. A shaft was sunk on the old channel and pay gravel was struck at 103 feet. A hoist now has been installed and gravel is being hoisted for washing.

Mrs. Ella Wilson, who was chosen to office in Hunnewell, Kas., in 1911, was the first woman mayor in the United States.

Austrian ship, between Vancouver and Australia, in the spring of 1918, during the worst of the final German drive. Most of the passengers were returning disabled Australian officers and high-class Australian women who had been in England caring for their wounded sons or brothers. On the piano of the music room was a book of German songs, which the ladies of the party sang in German, quite as a matter of course.

The peoples really close to the war never boycotted the German language or German music. That was reserved for us at the other end of the world.

The funeral of A. N. Logsden, 40, Brea oil worker who was killed early Thursday morning when he fell from an oil derrick, was held today at 2:30 p. m. from McAuley's undertaking parlors, Fullerton. Burial was made in Loma Vista cemetery. Death was accidental, caused by the shock and loss of blood incidental to the numerous injuries which the man sustained in his fall, a coroner's jury decided late yesterday. Coroner C. D. Brown announced the verdict. The jurymen were J. McCarter, C. C. Miller, C. F. Kenney, George T. Harsch, Ed L. Jones and Arthur E. Steulke.

The card said that the roads from Santa Ana to Seattle, a distance of 1385 miles, all are in good condition. The Santa Anans intend to continue their trip into British Columbia.

MEETS 'THE GIRL,' ASKS NAME CHANGED

Curtis P. Brown grew up under the name of his stepfather, Mathews, and had almost forgotten his true name, until he met "the girl."

The matter of marriage raised the question of names. They must be married under his true name. And that would be most confusing, of course, because his friends had always known him as Curtis P. Mathews.

It would be rather awkward, certainly, to have your friends address you thus:

"Hello, Mathews, how are you? And how is your wife, Mrs. Brown?"

Impossible, of course.

So Curtis went to his old schoolmate, Bert West, who is now Attorney Z. B. West jr.

"I've got to get this name proposition straightened out," he told West.

So the name Curtis P. Brown had been legally discarded today in favor of Curtis P. Mathews. The matter was attended to at a hearing, late yesterday, before Superior Judge R. Y. Williams.

But it developed at the hearing that "the girl" had changed her name before Brown did so. They had decided, after all, not to wait for the groom's name to be changed first, and were married recently under the name of Brown.

Mrs. Brown's name changed automatically to Mathews when that name was legally conferred on her husband.

WILL DECIDE BUARO OIL LEASE QUESTION

Whether oil drilling operations shall start in the Buaro district in the next ninety days, or the field abandoned by the company that has been active in seeking leases, will be decided at a meeting of property owners to be held at the home of J. H. Hoshaw tonight at 8 o'clock, it was announced today.

Owners of land in the vicinity have been invited to meet Willedd Andrews, Los Angeles attorney and representative of an oil company of San Francisco. According to Andrews, the company is ready to start drilling just as soon as leases can be adjusted and material can be placed on the ground.

The outcome of the movement will depend entirely on the attitude displayed by owners at tonight's meeting, it was declared. Andrew and his associates have spent considerable time in investigating the territory and have satisfied themselves that the field is promising, it was said.

Andrews and Geologist Sliser made a thorough and final investigation of the field last Wednesday. The geologist was enthusiastic in his declarations that oil indications are favorable. According to reports, he has asserted that the oil strata tapped by the Placentia and Huntington Beach oil fields passes through Buaro.

The section in which Andrews and his associates propose operating is between two and three miles west of Santa Ana and should a well be located there it will be nearer to Santa Ana than any oil development in the county.

SOUTH AMERICAN FLIERS UNDAUNTED

BUENOS AIRES, June 24.—Airplane pioneering in South America is followed as doggedly by aviators of this continent as by those who have been the first to chart routes in other parts of the world.

Undaunted by three failures, Lieutenant Edurado Hearne, an Argentine, is ready to start again in an attempt to reach Lima, Peru, by air. His latest effort was countered when his plane exploded in the air and he was forced to make a landing at Travesia and return by train.

Recently an Italian civilian flier left here and made the second crossing of the Southern Andes ever accomplished by airplane, but failed to reach the Peruvian capital. He landed at Antofogasta, having completely outflown two military pilots who set out about the same time, getting only as far as Santa Lusia, Argentina.

WILL TEST POWER OF CAL. SCHOOL BOARDS

CALEXICO, Cal., June 24.—Rights of California school boards under the new school law governing the employment and dismissal of teachers will be tested here July 11.

The local court yesterday overruled the school board's demurrer on an action by Attorney William Ginder of Calexico for an alternative writ of mandamus against the board to show cause for discharge of certain teachers, and set the date for the hearing.

The court stated the opinion that discretion in dismissing a teacher should rest with the school superintendent.

GOLD CHEST LOST IN 1650 LOCATED IN ONTARIO RIVER

PENETANGUISHENE, Ontario, June 24.—A treasure chest lost in the River Wye by Jesuit missionaries to Huronia, nearly three centuries ago, has been located, the authorities believe, and divers were working to bring the ancient box to the surface. The chest lies in the mud, beneath twenty feet of water, near the mouth of the Wye. Magnetic diving rods indicate it is heavily laden with gold.

MARKET REPORT

WALL ST. JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, June 24—Railroad stocks furnished the most activity in the two hour trading on the New York Stock exchange today.

New York Central made anew high for 1922 and substantial gains were scored by many other representative issues in the carries group.

With current earnings making a good showing about the only blot on the railroad outlook is the coal strike which at last shows signs at least of moving toward an effort for settlement from public quarters.

Concerning the railroad stock the company executives are not indifferent to the danger that the men may be talked into quitting their jobs. Some frankly admit that they expect to see local strikes but are confident the crisis wil not reach national proportions.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE

CHICAGO, June 24.—Grain prices were irregular at the close of the Chicago Board of Trade today. The market rallied slightly at the close after being weak all day. Rain benefitting the wheat crop in Canada and the Northwest was reported. A light rainfall was also reported in sections where the corn was suffering from lack of moisture. Seling pressure was hevay with little buying power apparent. Oats was strong. Provisions were irregular.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Approximately 900 chests of berries were received on the market today. The quality of strawberries is generally poor though some very good berries are still available. Prices on straws ranged from 50 to 85 cents a drawer, which is slightly higher. Genuine blacks sold from 50 to 60 cents a drawer while black loganberries were selling from 35 to 45 cents.

Stockton red onions are weaker and street prices are reported at $1 to $1.25 a bag while at the wharf they were selling at 85 cents cwt.

Canteloupe prices continue comparatively high despite lower prices quoted at Brawley. Receipts have not been exceedingly heavy and stocks are cleaning up daily. The quality has generally been very good and demand is quite satisfactory. Ten cars arrived in the last twenty-four hours.

Sacked vegetables, especially carrots and turnips, are in very light demand and dealers are compelled to drop their prices to stimulate sales.

Lemons are being quoted lower with largest fancy stock selling as high as $6.75 a box.

String beans were in liberal supply but the quality was generally poor and prices were slightly lower on Kentucky Wonders from the South.

SUPPLIES LIGHT: Pineapples, blackberries, gooseberries, figs, currants, grapefruit, peaches, good celery, artichokes, cabbage, eggplant, peppers.

SUPPLIES LIBERAL: Apples, oranges, bananas, lemons, apricots, cherries, raspberries, strawberries, potatoes, asparagus, spinach, peas, lettuce, cucumbers, tomatoes, canteloupes, summer squash, beans.

Your Seven League Boots

THE WEARER of the "seven league boots" could cover miles at a step. But he didn't have a thing on you.

A glance through your paper and you jump from New York to San Francisco, Philadelphia to London, or from Montreal to Timbuktu. You know what is going on the world over almost as soon as the events occur.

Turn to the advertising columns and you are transported to the grocers, the clothiers, the music store; you visit the factory of a manufacturer, or talk with the maker of a new household appliance.

Right in your own arm-chair, unhurried, unworried and without effort, you can make your choice of good merchandise.

Merchants and manufacturers who put advertisements in this paper are progressive. They must give good value. They know that advertising, by increasing the number of sales; will lower prices and give you more for your money.

The advertisements are miles ahead of "seven league boots." Read them.

FULLERTON BANK IN ACTION TO RECOVER ON 2 $1000 NOTES

The First National Bank of Fullerton was plaintiff today in a suit against B. H. Nymeyer, on file in the superior court, where the bank asks judgment for $2,000 on account of two alleged notes for $1,000 each.

In addition, the bank asks that 500 shares of stock of the Victor Account corporation, held as collateral security for the notes, be adjudged by the court as a valid pledge of security.

The two notes were said to have been executed by Nymeyer to C. E. Holcomb and subsequently assigned to the bank. A $5,000 note given by G. H. Jones, was first posted as security, it was said, the stock later being substituted.

Besides the principal sums, the bank asks judgment for $200 interest. Attorney Guss Hagenstein of Fullerton, filed the action in behalf of the bank.

INDIAN CHARGED WITH THEFT FROM LABORER

When Paul Soso, full-blooded Navajo Indian, disappeared from the Bert Minnix ranch, southeast of Newport bay, at the same time that $65 in currency was missed from the sleeping quarters of John Zanetti, another employe of Minnix, suspicion fell upon the Navajo, it was learned today as the authorities conducted a search for him.

This suspicion was strengthened when it became known that Soso had appeared briefly at a local cafe after leaving the ranch, and had "flashed" a good-sized bank roll. It was almost clinched when a young Indian at the ranch identified tracks leading from Zanetti's quarters as those of Soso.

So the search was on today. It led in the direction of San Diego, where Soso was understood to have gone.

TO COMPILE DATA ON COUNTY GRAIN YIELD

Grain growers of Orange county were today eagerly looking forward to the tabulation of the variety test plots established by the extension service, as the crops on these plots were being harvested

Last spring 140 acres of grain, consisting of early Bart wheat, "400" barley and Mariout barley were planted on the farms of Aaron Buchheim and W. J. Callis, San Juan Capistrano, E. E. Campbell, Orange and Andrew Cock, Tustin, in an effort to determine which variety was best suited to Orange county conditions.

The harvesting began yesterday and will continue early next week. After this is completed, Farm Advisor Wahlberg will compile data on the yield of the several plots, and publish the information for the benefit of other grain growers. The final compilation will be complete by July 15, it was expected.

NEWPORT MAN JAILED IN BAD CHECK CHARGE

L. R. Cain, Newport Beach business man, was held in the county jail here today in default of $500 bail, which amount was fixed by Justice J. B. Cox when Cain's preliminary hearing was set late yesterday for July 13 at 10 a. m.

Cain was charged with passing a no-fund check for $55.52 on A. W. Davison, of Newport Beach. Attorney Morris Cain of Santa Ana, represents Cain.

HUBBY DESERTED HER 16 YEARS AGO, CLAIM

Mary A. Resner waited 16 years after her husband, Theodore Resner, was alleged to have deserted her, before she asked for divorce. Her suit was on file today in the superior court here.

The Resners were married at Roswell, New Mexico, 26 years ago on Christmas eve. December 24, 1896. Ten years later, in May, 1906, the alleged desertion took place.

Besides the desertion charge, Mrs. Resner alleged non support as further grounds for action. She is represented by Attorney James P. Hansen, of Huntington Beach.

WINS INTERLOCUTORY DIVORCE DECREE HERE

Charles G. Boster was today in possession of an interlocutory decree of divorce from Ferna L. Boster. The decree was granted by Superior Judge R. Y. Williams following a hearing late yesterday. Attorney Z. B. West jr. represented the plaintiff.

CLAIM SUBSTITUTE MATERIAL USED BY ANAHEIM PLASTERER

A plasterer who was accused of using a substitute for specified materials in the construction of a house at Anaheim was defendant today in a damage suit brought by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peck of that city.

The Pecks ask $1500 damages from W. H. Kidd, the plasterer, alleging that the material applied to the exterior of their stucco house proved a failure. The specifications, they asert, called for a different material.

Kidd secured the plastering contract for the house from the general contractor, A. H. Pibel, it was alleged.

The plaintiffs are represented in the court action by Attorneys Ames and McFadden, of Anaheim.

WINS FINAL DECREE.

Final decre of divorce had been entered in the superior court today on order of Judge R. Y. Williams in the case of Catherine Gibson against Chauncey Gibson.

"millions now living will never die" —Judge Rutherford

There is special significance in the troublous days through which the world has passed since 1914.
Out of these events will come greater developments, involving all nations and peoples.
The Bible accurately foretold present conditions.
Its prophecies regarding the future will be fulfilled with equal exactness.
The outstanding hope held forth in the Scriptures is the hope of eternal life, and the realization of this hope is now at hand.
It will be accompanied by all that the heart has longed for—health, peace and happiness.
God's purpose in giving man a revelation of His Plan was that mankind should use it, understand it, and appreciate the principles it sets forth.
An understanding of the Bible broadens one's view and inspires cheerfulness and optimism.
Prophets of old have described with glowing tongue the glories of the bright day that is now dawning.
Hear the subject discussed at length.

"Tale of a Tour" Offers Amusement to Group at Farewell Party

As a farewell honor to Mrs. P. M. Robinson who leaves Wednesday on a European tour, Mrs. S. M. Davis entertained charmingly yesterday afternoon at her home, 120 West Eighteenth street. Vari-colored roses formed the floral decorations in the living room, in honor of the occasion, while richly colored dahlias were used in the dining room.

Mrs. Davis had an amusingly interesting contest planned for the entertainment of her guests. Writing the story of a fictitious trip to many of the lands which the Santa Ana tourists will visit, she left blank all the places where geographical names occurred.

The guests were instructed to fill in these names as correctly as possible with the result that when the completed "Tale of a Tour" was read, Mrs. John Clarkson, with the most nearly correct story, received the pretty remembrance which the hostess had in readiness.

As an added pleasure for the guests, was a little program of readings by Mrs. Clarkson and songs by Mrs. H. M. Sammis, and at the tea hour, Mrs. Davis, assisted by her daughter, Miss Laura Davis, recently returned from Stanford where she was taking post-graduate work, served appetizing refreshments.

Gathered to offer farewell wishes to Mrs. Robinson, were her daughters, Mrs. Caroline Fisher, Mrs. C. W. Burns, Mrs. G. E. Bruns, Mrs. J. W. McCormac, Mrs. A. M. Gardner, Mrs. F. P. Jayne, Mrs. W. E. Smith, Mrs. E. E. Keech, Mrs. John Clarkson, Mrs. Theo Winbigler, Mrs. W. B. Snow, Mrs. F. W. Wiesseman, Mrs. J. G. Ruick and Mrs. H. M. Sammis.

FITZMAURICE'S FINEST

What is claimed to be the most ambitious screen effort of George Fitzmaurice, is his Paramount picturization of Booth Tarkington's thrilling novel, "The Man From Home," which comes to the Yost theater next Wednesday.

Filmed in Italy, the locale of the story, and with a superlative cast of popular players, the picture sweeps the onlooker through a breathless succession of incidents to a startling climax. James M. Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson, Norman Kerry and John Miltern and Dorothy Cumming, have the principal roles.

Laguna Beach Party Proves to Offer Shower To One of Summer's Brides

Laguna was the chosen destination of a merry group of picnickers who motored down Thursday evening and enjoyed supper on one of the points overlooking the sea. Members of the Spurgeon Memorial church choir gave the pleasant affair to honor one of their number, Miss Mary Addie Jones, whose marriage to W. T. Grant of Redlands will take place in July.

A delicious picnic supper was enjoyed early in the evening and at its conclusion, Miss Jones was blindfolded and showered with all manner of lovely and useful gifts, which were later unwrapped and examined, to the interest and entertainment of the entire party.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to beach sports and it was a late hour when the party finally started on the homeward way. Enjoying the pleasant affair were the honoree, Miss Mary Addie Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Widney, their son, Charles jr., and their daughters, Miss Eleanor and tiny "Babe" who was the party mascot; Mr. and Mrs. Will Obarr and daughters, the Misses Thelma and Dorothy Obarr; Mr. and Mrs. William Ulm, Mr. and Mrs. James Nuckolls, Mrs. Iva Hallman; the Misses Frances Walton, Eileen Young, Thelma Simmons, Eunice Jones, Leila Ritner, Hester Covington, Mamie Armstrong, Miss McNabb, the Rev. William Ray Richards, Messrs Wilson, Wallace Walton, Cleve Sedoris and the Rev. Jerry Jeter who so recently conducted evangelistic services in this city.

"THE GREATEST TRUTH"

It is to be screened at the Temple theater next Monday, only, starring Mia May.

Dealing with the evils that accompany the utterance of untruths, the theme tells the story of a woman faced with the problem of choosing between two loves. Her soul in torment, she seeks a Hindu mystic and he, by sending her spirit back through the centuries, shows her that truth always conquers and that only by telling and living the truth could she hope for happiness. His prophecy is graphically fulfilled and in the end her choice brings her the desired happiness.

The picture is gorgeously mounted and in the flash-back to the ancient Roman Empire the settings attain the highest degree of magnificence.

Pretty Wedding Unites Popular Young Pair at Groom's Home

The pleasant ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Halderman, 414 North Maybury street, was the scene of a pretty wedding last night at 8 o'clock, when a son of the home, Leonard Pillsbury Halderman, and Grace Martin Whisman took their wedding vows in the presence of a small group of relatives and close friends.

June roses filled the air with fragrance and offered a charming setting for the ceremony of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Arrayed in bridal white, her long veil falling from a chaplet of orange blossoms, Miss Whisman joined her future husband at the made a charming picture as she improvised altar. Following the ceremony, a delicious refreshment meu was served after which Mr. and Mrs. Halderman departed on a honeymoon trip. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends at the pretty home at Maybury and Fourth streets where Mr. Halderman has a fine orange grove. The young people will receive hearty good wishes from a host of friends, both being deservedly popular. Mrs. Halderman was formerly from Arkansas where her father, Lewis F. Martin still resides.

Ebell's "Mystery" Program for Monday Afternoon Arouses Curiosity

Just what will be the nature of the entertainment awaiting Ebell members Monday afternoon when they gather at the First Presbyterian church auditorium for the final monthly meeting of the year?

Will they have the pleasure of hearing local artistes in a program of vocal and instrumental numbers? Will they enjoy a clever and amusing comedy sketch? Will there be a short society drama or a lurid Russian affair? Will American playwrights, authors and composers be featured or will the program present Dostoievsky, Turgeineff, Rabridranath, Tagore, Hauptman, Maeterlink, Rachmaninoff, Wieniawiski?

These and a myriad of like questions are buzzing in the minds of Ebell members, for a mantle of secrecy enfolds the plan for Monday's program. Members of the Drama-Music section, directed by Ollimae Enlow Matthews, will present it, but whether in person or by proxy, remains to be seen. The very element of mystery thus introduced, adds to the interest, however, and one prominent Ebell member today declared that she wouldn't miss the affair for anything in the world, if for no other reason than to satisfy her curiosity.

"And then you know," she continued, "Those Drama-Music members always have something unusual up their sleeve, and I have the feeling that we are to have the most interesting and entertaining program of the year, even though some of the artists we had were remarkably gifted."

The program will be presented immediately following the short but improtant business session which opens promptly at 2:30 p. m.

Ebell Travelers

No more delightful surroundings could have been selected for the picnic supper of the Fourth Ebell Travelers, than the lovely country home of Mrs. C. P. Boyer where section members enjoyed an afternoon program, Wednesday and were joined later by their husbands for supper.

Mrs. G. M. Bacom gave the paper of the afternoon, "What California Has Done for the World." This came as the finale to a year's engrossing study of our own state, and offered many facts of unusual interest to those who heard it.

Commercial, industrial, agricultural, literary and artistic lines were touched upon by Mrs. Bacom who cited particularly, the writers who have added to California's fame. These included Gertrude Atherton, Stewart Edward White, John Steven McGroarty, John Muir and many others. Artists who have helped spread the beauties of the state abroad, were also discussed, with the artist colony at Laguna receiving due mention. Of special interest to dwellers in this county, famed for its oranges, was the fact brought out by the speaker, that the navel orange has been introduced into California through efforts of a woman.

Following the afternoon program and the arrival of husbands of the members, the delicious picnic supper was served in the Boyer gardens under a great walnut tree. A luxuriant growth of ivy, encircling the trunk and entwining among the branches formed a green canopy through which twinkled electric lights, making the scene unusually lovely.

In all, there were over thirty members and guests to enjoy the pleasant occasion, special section guests including Mrs. Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Nau.

Bridge Follows Luncheon at Pleasant Gathering On Thursday

Four tables were utilized for bridge at a smartly appointed luncheon given by Mrs. George Briggs Thursday at her home, 644 North Broadway. The Briggs home is one of the most hospitable in the city and its chatelaine is noted for the pleasure and variety of her entertainments.

Thursday's affair, like its many predecessors, was quite charming, and a wealth of summer blooms made the house like a bower. The luncheon tables were decked with sweet peas, and a delicious menu was enjoyed before cards were introduced.

At the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Alice Harris was found to hold high score and received a lovely gift as did Mrs. Spencer Collins who was second. There were sixteen guests in addition to the hostess, Mrs. Briggs.

Post-Nuptial Shower Given To Honor June Bride

Mrs. James M. Kittle (Grace Hall) whose marriage was one of the social events of June, offered incentive for a charmingly planned shower held last night at the home of Mrs. Clyde Whitney, 1201 Bush street, with Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Elmer Schaniel as hostesses.

"Hearts" offered the appropriate diversion of the evening, with Mrs. Charles Wheatley carrying off the honors and receiving a pretty gift. Miss Lillian Lykke was consoled while an amusing little "lucky couple" was given as a guest prize to Mrs. Kittle with a wish for good fortune.

The house was gay with masses of Scotch broom, and at a late hour while the guests remained seated at the card tables, the hostesses served a delicious salad course. This was followed by a post-nuptial shower on the guest of honor who received a collection of beautiful gifts for use in her new home.

Among the guests gathered to greet Mrs. Kittle were Mrs. Irma Scove, Mrs. Dean Collver, Mrs. Charles Wheatley, Mrs. Arthur Eells, Mrs. Harvey Joplin, Mrs. Fred Merker, Miss Verrian Cravath whose engagement to George Platt was announced recently, Miss Justine Whitney, Miss Mona Craemer, Miss Margaret Galbraith, Miss Jessie Campbell, Miss Blanche Hill, Miss Gwendolyn Hoyle, Miss Marie Gregg, Miss Lillian Lykke, Miss Hattie Powers, Miss Verga Trumble, Miss Myrtle Meyer, and the entertaining hostesses, Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Schaniel.

Works Way Through College, Graduates With High Honors

Darius F. Johnson, Santa Ana man, who has just graduated from the law department of the University of Southern California.

Darius F. Johnson, son of Mrs. H. S. Pankey, 811 North Broadway, this city, today was in Los Angeles awaiting the examination next Wednesday for admission to the bar, following which, if successful, he will open a law office in Santa Ana.

The graduate has maintained his residence in Los Angeles during his school term, working his way through the University of Southern California. He graduated with high honors, and was the youngest member of the class graduating from the law department.

During his college period he became well known throughout Southern California as a public speaker, having been active in drives for the benefit of the Orthopedic hospital. He spoke in many cities of Southern California in behalf of the institution.

Personals

Miss Dorothy Pendleton of Boston, Mass., who has been a guest in the Nisson home, 2500 North Main street, for the past two weeks, left recently for San Francisco where she will spend a few days before going to the Yosemite, thence to Portland and Seattle and back to her Boston home by way of the Canadian Rockies.

Miss Laura Davis, who has been taking post-graduate work at Stanford where she majored in history, has returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Davis, 120 West Eighteenth street, and will remain in Santa Ana for the summer.

After a delightful ten days' visit here following the close of her private school at Berkeley, Miss Cora L. Williams has returned to Berkeley. While in this city, she made her headquarters at the home of her father, J. P. Williams on North Main street, and divided her time among her host of friends and relatives.

LOCAL FOLK IN BIG COUNTY PARK PICNIC

Orange county park's towering oak trees offered shade and coolness to hundreds of Santa Anans today who gathered to picnic at the county's beauty spot.

Members of Hermosa and Santa Ana chapters, O. E. S. with their families, gathered at Masonic temple at 9 o'clock, where the start was made for the day at the park. With John A. Harvey of Hermosa chapter, Raymond Moncrief and Carl Mock of Santa Ana chapter, acting as a committee, transportation was provided for all members and their families to reach the picnic grounds.

At virtually the same hour, former dwellers south of the Mason-Dixon line were wending their way over all Orange county roads, to the big Dixie picnic sponsored by the local chapter of Daughters of the Confederacy and open to every Orange county person once dwelling in the south.

L. H. PADGHAM PLANS NEW JEWELRY STORE

L. H. Padgham announced today that he is making arrangements to continue the Padgham name in the jewelery business in Santa Ana and that as soon as pending plans can be completed he will open a store here. An old friend, who has had years of experience in the jewelry business, will be associated with him, he said. The friend, whose name he does not desire to disclose at this time, is now closing out large business interests in New Mexico, preparatory to moving to Santa Ana, Padgham said.

Padgham pointed today to the fact that he learned the practical part of the business from his father, and later finished his trade in Chicago, where he was identified for a numbers of years with wholesale jewelry firms.

He said that when the new enterprise is under way the new firm would be in position to take care of guarantees on jewelry made by J. H. Padgham and Son.

BUSINESS FIRMS OF CITY PREPARE FOR DRIVE ON RODENTS

W. W. Chandler, city sanitary inspector, and many Santa Ana business men today rolled up their sleeves and prepared to become modern pide pipers of Hamelin.

Their campaign to make the city ratless will begin tonight.

Chandler declared that many firms have joined in the drive, purchased the necessary virus and tonight will lay the poison so that when snooping rats come from their habitats at the zero hour they soon will catch "cold" and within twenty-eight days will either die of pneumonia or be eaten by cannibal rodents.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT JAMES'S BIG LURE

The Santa Ana business district reverberated today with the gleeful shouts and merry laughter of hundreds of kiddies, as the Children's day conducted by James's New Confectionery, 105 East Fourth street, was in full swing.

Free candy, noisy horns, paper caps, cookies and balloons—all these attracted the kiddies who thronged the sidewalk in front of the store. Excitement reached a peak when W. L. James released several dozen balloons, filled with a lighter than air vapor. Many of these bore tickets good for 50 cents in trade, and as they floated skyward, wafted by the breezes, the children set out, determined to capture them when they reached the ground again.

Many goodies were dispensed in this manner.

This afternoon all the children were the guests of the confectionery management at Yost's theater where a film, "The Last Trail", was shown.

ORANGE SCOUTS ARE GUESTS AT BIG "FEED"

Orange Boy Scouts were the guests of the Orange County Council and their president, D. Eyman Huff, last evening at Hewes park. Flapjacks smothered in New York state maple syrup brought from the east by Huff, wieners, hot chocolate and ice cream were "feed" features.

The new troop charter was presented to Scoutmaster, the Rev. Harry J. Hill of Orange troop No. 1, by President Huff.

Scout yells and cheers for President Huff and the council were led by Scout Chief.

PLAN SITE FOR BOY SCOUT CAMPERS

Several men of Orange county, active in Boy Scout work, today were making preparations to go to Barton Flats, on the Bear Valley road, tomorrow to look over the location as a possible site for a summer camp of scout troops.

Roland Dye, scout executive, left yesterday, and was joined today by his assistant, E. V. Teaney. They were busily engaged today in making preparations for the visitors tomorrow, among whom will be D. Eyman Huff, of El Modena, president of the county scout council; Willard Smith and Leon Whitsell of Orange; Fred Newcomb and Dr. M. A. Patton, Santa Ana; T. B. Allen, Fullerton and E. H. Metcalf, of Anaheim.

The council has decided definitely to hold a summer camp and the committee is engaged in efforts to determine the site.

Barton flats are on the summit of the first grade after the first control on the Mill Creek road. They are said to be an ideal place for a camp. It is expected that the camp, wherever it is located, will be opened soon after the Fourth of July. Tentative plans provide for the arrangement of a camp to entertain two groups of 200 boys each. Each group will be given a two weeks' outing.

Experts Declare Washington, Cornell and Navy Will Lead Crews

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, June 24.—With the Yale-Harvard race out of the way the water classic of the year will be staged at Poughkeepsie next Monday.

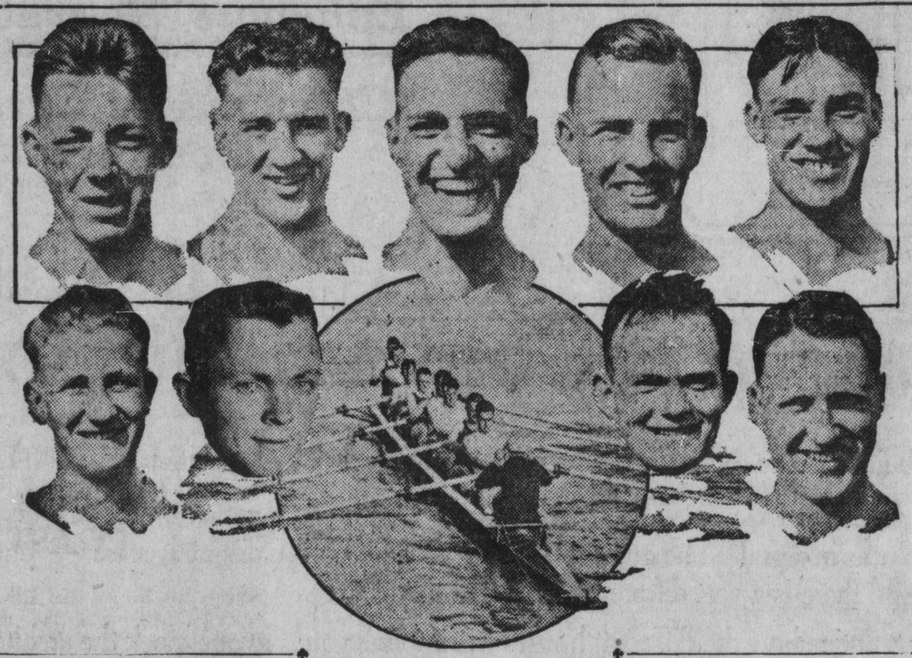

Six crews, representing the best American circles, will fight for the crown that is now held by the great eight of the United States Naval academy.

Two months ago the midshipmen crew was regarded as a prohibitive favorite to close its illustrious record with another intercollegiate title.

In the past two weeks, opinion has changed, however, and now the critics expect a bitter three cornered fight between the Navy, Cornell and Washington, the champion crew of the Pacific coast.

Syracuse has been warned not to underestimate the orange crew and it is likely that four crews will battle all the way down the three-mile course with Pennsylvania and Columbia having the outside chance that always exists in a big field.

WASHINGTON'S GREAT CREW IS FAVORITE IN EASTERN REGATTA

The above picture shows the Washington crew in action and its members. Eastern critics some time ago awarded Monday's race to the Naval Academy crew, but since seeing the Washington outfit in action they have undergone a change of view and will await the result before announcing the winner. Members of the crew are, top, left to right—Tidmarsh, bow; Ingram, No. 5; M. Murphy, captain and stroke; Souhn, No. 7; V. Murphy, No. 6. Bottom—Parkins, No. 2; Grant, coxswain; Cushman, No. 3; Mason, No. 4.

Here Are Heroes of Yesterday's Battles

YESTERDAY'S HERO—Walter Johnston yesterday pitched the 96th shoutout of his major league career. Blanked the Athletics 3 to 0.

Cincinnati Reds defeated Pittsburgh Pirates in an easy 6 to 2 victory. Duncan of Cincinnati contributed the feature of the game by stealing home in the fourth.

Detroit swamped the Browns in their second straight victory, 10 to 6.

Philadelphia and Boston furnished plenty of action in a free hitting game by six home runs. Philadelphia won, 10 to 9 in spite of Boston's rally in the ninth as Boston tied the score with five runs.

The Yankees were trimmed for the second time by the Red Sox, 5 to 4, as Scott's poor throw allowed Pratt to score in the eighth.

Hooper's homer in the tenth won for the White Sox. They defeated Cleveland 6 to 5.

TRADESMEN PLAN TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Thirty or more members of the Orange County Automobile Trades association today were making plans to go to Pasadena next Monday to attend the convention of the southern division of the California Automobile Trades association, which convenes in that city for a two-day session.

The convention will be held at the Hotel Maryland. The convention banquet and dance will be held in Palm hall, at the hotel Monday evening.

One of the special addresses to which tradesmen are looking forward is that to be delivered by Percy E. Chamberlain, magazine writer on the automotive industry. He is credited with being the originator of the plan calling for a flat-rate charge for making automobile repairs and has made public declaration that the time is not far distant when auto repair work charges on the hourly basis will be eliminated entirely.

Special entertainment features have been arranged for women accompanying delegates to the convention.

"JAN OF THE BIG SNOWS"

"Jan of the Big Snows," a James Oliver Curwood production, is due at the Yost for next Friday only. Its theme is the honor-bound code of the North that holds a woman safe—a strong drama of love and hate in a Hudson Bay post. Warner Richmond, a splendid actor, who has not appeared on the local screen in recent months, is to be seen in the title role. Richmond is well remembered here for his notable work as the brother in "Tol-able David."

MATHILDE McCORMICK WEDS

CHICAGO, June 24.—A marriage license was granted Mathilde McCormick. The clerk came down to earth when Mathilde's address was not on the gold coast.

CASEYS WILL CLOSE SCHEDULE TOMORROW

The Southern California Knights of Columbus baseball league will close its schedule tomorrow, the final games bringing the Anaheim and Santa Ana teams together at 2:30 p. m. on the Anaheim Union high school diamond.

Santa Ana now occupies fourth place in the race and in the event the locals win tomorrow and San Pedro loses, Santa Ana will climb into third place.

Hund and Peltzer will be the battery for the Mother Colony team, while Manager Markle of the locals has selected Mike Kelly and Arambel for battery jobs.

The standing of the teams to date follows:

Los Angeles	8	1	.889
Pasadena	7	7	.777
San Pedro	4	4	.500
Santa Ana	4	5	.444
Anaheim	2	7	.222
Santa Monica	1	7	.111

Build Distinctive, Convenient Homes

Of course you are going to build a home some day—who is there who has not that ambition?

But there are two kinds of dwellings which may be styled homes. One is put together on the one-unit plan—every house on the block as alike as two peas in a pod. The other is to plan your home for distinctiveness — putting some of your-self into its construction. And there is a vast difference between them.

As you walk along the street, notice how the different houses will impress you. In one block the architecture is all of one type. You may depend upon it that the building was done by some company and the houses bought by their owners afterward. In another block you find variety, indicating that the home-dwellers had something to say when the structures were reared.

In which type would you prefer to spend the rest of your life? Would you need more than a thought to decide?

Distinctiveness in a home adds a thousand-fold to its desirability—as a place to live, or, on occasion, to sell. Let our home-builders consult with you. Tell them your ideas and let them suggest how they can best be worked out. BUILD YOURSELF AND YOUR IDEAS INTO THE PLACEYOU ARE TO CALL HOME.

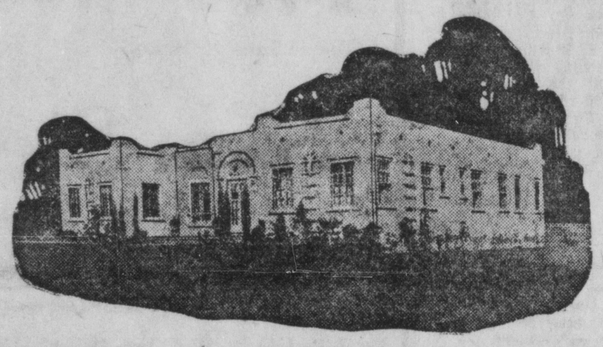

Then, when you get inside, you also find two types of dwellings. One is the staid, conventional one, with the rooms four-square, minus window seats and breakfast nooks, with the kitchen twice as large as it should be, and with no thought to convenience and the saving of steps.

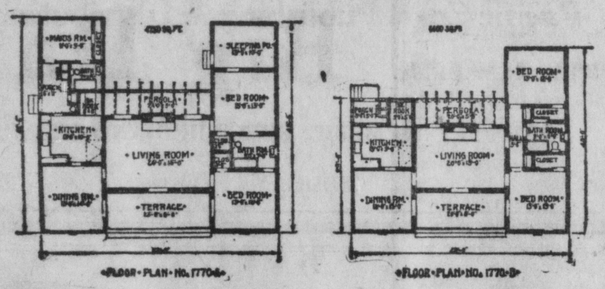

The other type is a really cozy, comfy, delightful place in which to spend a day or a lifetime. There is a living room with large windows, and opening off from it is a den, which can be made just what you or the wife want it to be. There are plenty of large and roomy closets; the cupboard and utensil containers are built in, saving room and labor; the bedrooms are light and airy and vary in shape, permitting the most delightful individuality in their furnishing.

"Ah, this latter is the kind of a home I want,"–aren't you saying that now? Well, you can just as well have a distinctive, convenient home as the other kind. It costs little more, and the satisfaction which you will derive from it will repay you day by day, and every day, as you enjoy its beauties and benefits.

Start at once. Buy that lot today. Or, if you have the lot already, begin to plan the home that you will have, almost before you realize it, if you but start in earnest. Talk it over with the wife and the children. They will convince you if you have any remaining doubts.

The following progressive firms and individual citizens are so convinced of the truth of these statements that they are co-operating in presenting this weekly educational page. Our Home-Building Editor will advise and assist you if you will write him a letter, addressed in care of this paper.

"Plan No. 1770-A—1770-B"

It would be hard to conceive of a more pretentious, distinctive and practical home than the one we are featuring above.

The alternate floor plans convey unique arrangement of rooms which are bound to please. They reflect compactness and feature time and labor saving conveniences which are the pride of the housewife.

The exterior is simple and yet attractive.

The following organizations, public-spirited firms and individuals are interested in helping to make Santa Ana a city of more beautiful homes and to assist in every possible way in creating homes for those who are desirous of making Santa Ana their future home, and it is their recommendation that all who can possibly do so, build homes or convert their surplus money into homebuilding channels. That you may take full advantage of the information these pages contain, they have retained the services of competent home designers who will gladly advise with you and give valuable assistance in planning your new home. BEGIN HERE TODAY

After eight years of married life, MARK SABRE gradually realizes that he is neither understood by his prosaic and snobbish wife, MABEL, nor by his colleagues in the firm of Fortune, East and Sabre. A promised partnership in the business has been denied him and promised to TWYNING, a jealous associate.

Suddenly an old sweetheart, NONA, now the wife of dashing Lord Tybar, returns after two years of travel. Mabel becomes suspicious when Nona writes Sabre an informal invitation to visit her.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"An invitation? Whyever don't she write me?" "Whyever" again! —"May I see it?"

He took the letter from his pocket and handed it to her. "It's not exactly an invitation—not formal."

She did what he called "flicked" the letter out of its envelope. He watched her reading it and in his mind he could see as perfectly as she with her eyes, the odd, neat script; in his mind he read it with her, word by word.

Dear Marko—We're back. We've been from China to Peru—almost. Come up one day and be bored about it. How are you? Nona.

His thought was, "Damn the letter!"

Mabel handed it back, without returning it to its envelope. She said, "No it's not formal."

She snipped three roses with astonishing swiftness — snip, snip, snip!

In half an hour the shallow basket was beautified with fragrant blooms and Mabel though she had enough.

"Well, that's that," said Sabre as they re-entered the morning room.

III

She took up a creamy rose and snipped off a fragment of stalk over his saucer. "Why does she call you 'Marko'?"

He was utterly taken aback. If the question had come from anyone but Mabel, he would have quite failed to connect it with the letter. But here had distinctly been an "incident" over the letter, though so far closed, as he had imagined, that he was completely surprised.

He said, "Who? Nona?"

"Yes, Nona, if you like. Lady Tybar."

"Why, she always has. You know that."

Mabel put the rose into a specimen vase with immense care and touched a speck off its petals with her fingers. "I really didn't."

"Mabel, you know you do. You must have heard her."

"Well, I may have. But long ago. I certainly didn't know she used it in letters."

He felt that he was growing angry.

"What on earth's the difference?"

"It seems to me there's a great deal of difference. I didn't know she wrote you letters."

He was angry. "Damn it, she doesn't write me letters."

Maddening!

And then he thought, "I'm not going to let it be maddening. This is just what happends." He said, "Well, this is silly. I've known her—we've known one another—for years, since we were children, pretty well. She's called me by my Christian name since I can remember. You must have heard her—perhaps you haven't. I thought you had. Anyway, dash the thing. What does it matter?"

"It doesn't matter"—she launched a flower into a vase—"a bit. I only think it's funny, that's all."

"Well, it's just her way."

Mabel gave a little sniff. He thought it was over. But it wasn't over. "If you ask me, I call it a funny letter. You say your Christian name, but it isn't your Christian name—Marko! And then saying, 'How are you?' like that—"

"Like what? She just said it, didn't she?"

"Yes, I know. And then 'Nona.' Don't you call that funny?"

"Well, I always used to call her 'Nona.' She'd have thought it funny, as you call it, to put anything else. I tell you it's just her way."

"Well, I think it's a very funny way and I think anybody else would think so. I don't like her. I never did like her."

He thought, "My God, this bickering! Why don't I get out of the room?"

"Come back for a day off with me! It's a funny thing you came back just in time to get that letter! Before it was delivered! There! Now you know!"

He was purely amazed. He thought, and his amazement was such that, characteristically, his anger left him; he thought, "Well of all the—"

But she otherwise interpreted his astonishment. She thought she had made an advantage and she pressed it. "Peraps you knew it was coming?"

"How on earth could I have known it was coming?"

She seemed to pause, to be considering. "She might have told you. You might have seen her."

He said, "As it happens, I did see her. Not three hours before I came back."

She seemed disappointed. She said, "I know you did. We met Lord Tybar."

And he thought, "Good Lord! She was trying to catch me."

She went on, "You never told me you'd met them. Wasn't that funny?"

"If you'd just think a little you'd see there was nothing funny about it. You found the letter so amazingly funny that, to tell you the truth, I'd had about enough of the Tybars. And I've had about enough of them."

"I daresay you have—with me. Perhaps you'd tell me this—would you have told me about the letter if I hadn't seen you get it?"

He thought before he answered and he answered out of his thoughts. He said slowly, "I—don't believe—I—would. I wouldn't. I wouldn't because I'd have known perfectly well that you'd have thought it—funny."

IV

No answer he could have made could have more exasperated her. "I—dont—believe—I—would." Deliberation! Something incomprehensible to her going on in his mind, and as a result of it a statement that no one on earth (she felt) but he would have made. Anyone else would have said boldly, blusteringly, "Of course I would have told you about the letter." She would have liked that. She would have disbelieved it and she could have said, and enjoyed saying, she disbelieved it. Or anyone else would have said furiously, "No, I'm damned if I'd have shown you the letter." She would have liked that. It would have affirmed her suspicions that there was "something in it;" and she wished her suspicions to be affirmed. It would have been something definite. Something justifiably incentive of anger, of resentment, of jealousy. Something she could understand.

She could not express her feelings in words. She expressed them in action. She arose violently and left the room. The whole of her emotions she put into the slam of the door behind her. The ornaments shivered. A cup sprang off a bracket and dashed itself to pieces on the floor.

CHAPTER IV

These events were on a Monday. On the following Thursday Nona came to see him at his office.

She stood still immediately she was across the threshold and the door closed behind her. She was smiling as though she felt herself to be up to some lark. "Hullo, Marko. Don't you hate me for coming in here like this?"

"It's jolly surprising."

"That's another way of saying it. Now if you'd said it was surprisingly jolly! Well, shake hands, Marko, and pretend you're glad."

He laughed and put out his hand. But she delayed response; she first slipped off the gauntlets she was wearing and then gave him her hand. "There!" she said.

"There!" It was as though she had now done something she much wanted to do; as one says "There!" on at last sitting down after much fatigue.

She tossed her gauntlets on to a chair. She walked past him towards the window. "You got my letter?"

"Yes."

Her face was averted. Her voice had not the bantering note with which she had spoken at her entry.

"You never answered it."

"Well, I'd just seen you—just before I got it."

She was looking out of the window. "Why haven't you been up?"

"Oh—I don't know. I was coming."

"Well, I had to come," she said.

He made no reply. He could think of none to make.

II

She turned sharply away from the window and came towards him, radiant again, as at her entry.

"Well, I like you best when you're thinking. You puzzle, don't you Marko? You've got a funny old head. I believe you live in your head, you know. Puzzling things. Clever beast! I wish I could live in mine." And she gave a note of laughter.

"Where do you live, Nona?"

"I don't live. I just go on"—she paused—"flotsam."

Strange word to use, strangely spoken!

It seemed to Sabre to drop with a strange, detached effect into the conversdation between them. His habit of visualizing inanimate things caused him to see as it were a pool between them at their feet, and from the word dropped into it, ripples that came to his feet upon his margin of the pool and to her feet upon hers.

He took the word away from its personal application. "I believe that's rather what I was thinking about when you came, Nona. About how we just go on—flotsam. Don't you know on a river where it's tidal, or on the seashore at the turn, the mass of stuff you see there, driftwood and spent foam and stuff, just floating there, uneasily, brought in and left there—from somewhere; and then presently the tide begins to take it and its' drawn off and moves away and goes—somewhere. Arrives and floats and goes. That's mysterious, Nona?"

2000 TAKE PART IN CARNIVAL AT TUSTIN

TUSTIN, June 24. — Success, spelled in capital letters, is the word one heard frequently here today wherever residents of the town foregathered to "talk over" the Knights of Pythias annual street dance and carnival held last evening; and, judging from sentiments expressed by the many visitors, "success" is heard in echo throughout the county. Fully 2000 persons attended the carnival.

Flashing headlights on automobiles numbered by scores seemed to indicate that all roads in the county led to Tustin last night.

And Tustin, nestling among her orange and lemon groves and her walnut orchards, her streets a riot of color, with the Stars and Stripes predominating in the decorative scheme, received her guests joyfully and the dance was on. Overhead, incandescents were festooned across the streets, virtually myriads of them being used on Main street, where the dance was held.

The carnival spirit came with the twilight and endless machines parked three rows deep on all streets in the vicinity of the dancing area provided ample testimony that the guests had come early, and, apparently, were to remain late—which they did.

Young and old joined in the merry-making. Tiny tots scarcely three years old danced about the corners of the dancing space in joyous abandon while many elderly faces, wreathed in smiles, looked on in sympathetic enjoyment. The music by Chapman's orchestra was thoroughly delightful and many of the older persons who came to look on and to enjoy the occasions found pleasure merely in listening to the selections.

Scouts Sell Refreshments

Members of Tustin Boy Scout Troop No. 1, for the night were merchants and did a flourishing business. The rapidity with which they disposed of ice cold drinks, ice cream cones and Eskimo pies was remindful of a bargain hunters' rush and, although the net proceeds had not been made public early this afternoon, there is every reason to believe the summer camping trip will be amply financed.

Walter Huntley. Hubert Wakeham, Thomas Smith, Dudley Crawford, John Coleman, Paul Phinoy. Harry Miller, Harold Hall and Kern Thomas.

The Knights of Pythias gave this carnival for the benefit of their Boy Scouts and the funds raised by them will be donated toward building a club house for the Boy Scouts.

Roy Smith was chairman of the committee of entertainment and his assistants were the efficient workers whose names are as follows:

Dancing committee—Arthur Lindsey, George Smith, Ben Wallenberg, Forest Collar, B. A. Crawford, H. A. Wassum, S. W. Stanley, Gus Bowman, E. Kiser, A. H. Holford, H. Squires and J. Crafts.

Last night's dance was the fifth which has been held here under the auspices of the Pythians.

CONCERT IS TONIGHT.

LAGUNA BEACH, June 24.—Much interest is manifested by local music lovers in the program to be given at the Art Gallery tonight by Robert B. Bias and Mildred Pray, who are artists of established reputation. The selections they have made for the recital insures an evening of genuine enjoyment.

WOMAN TOO WEAK TO WALK

Now Works Nine Hours a Day. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Strength

Union Village, Vt.—"I was weak and nervous and all run-down. I could not walk across the floor without resting, and I had been that way for weeks. I saw your advertisement in the paper and after taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt the good it was doing me and I took seven more in all. Before I finished I was able to work nine hours a day in a steam laundry. I cannot say too much in favor of your medicine. I trust all sick and suffering women will take it. It has been two years since I took it and I am strong and well." — Mrs. L. A. GUIMANN, Union Village, Vermont.

This is only one of such letters we are continually publishing showing what Lydia E. Pinkham has done for women. Mrs. Guimann's letter should interest you.

Many women get into a weak, nervous, run down condition because of ailments they often have. Such women should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the first sign of trouble.

MEETINGS, BITS OF NEWS AND PERSONALS

GARDEN GROVE, June 24.—The W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. F. M. Waltz Wednesday afternoon, there being a good attendance. The afternoon was given over to social welfare and foreign missionary work. Eighteen bouquets were distributed among the sick and shut in of the community.

"One weak spot and a whole new tire gone!"

The result of unseen "lumps" in the rubber

THE tread barely worn off—yet a blow-out ruins the entire shoe! What's the cause, you ask?

You could actually see the answer to this question if you had samples of tire rubber under a microscope. In ordinary rubber compounds, the rubber does not mix smoothly and evenly with the necessary strengthening materials. "Lumps" are formed—every "lump" a weak spot that helps bring a blow-out like this some day.

At last a rubber has been produced that reduces these "lumpy" formations to a minimum—that eliminates premature tire troubles. Four tire experts in the Thermoid Rubber Company discovered Crolide—an even-texture rubber that does not weaken with the stretching and straining that goes on inside a tire in use.

Crolide Compound is today used exclusively in the manufacture of Thermoid Tires. You are invited to call and see these tires for yourself—also the famous Crolide Compound Tubes.

IS THIS YOUR BIRTHDAY?

LIFE AND CHARACTER READING

Not withstanding their love and loyalty, people born on this date and under the sign governing it are apt to change companions and friends very frequently, often becoming the bitterest enemies of those to whom they previously were attached. They are tactful to diplomacy in some matters, and show their hand with painful clearness in others.

Their powers of understanding are very quick and keen, and they have excellent memories. Among them are indefatigable scholars and some of our finest public speakers, both men and women.

These people are usually of medium stature, rather large in the upper portion of the body, with round face, soft small features, and light or grayish eyes.

Steel workers, metal workers and iron moulders will do well to use the Want Ads if they are looking for positions. They will be advertised extensively the next week or two, and will help some one

"ACROSS THE DEAD LINE"
What a terrible thing is the hatred of brothers! When a family is divided against itself the consequences are certain to be ruinous to the happiness of everyone concerned. This is the theme of "Across the Deadline," the Universal Special Attraction starring Frank Mayo, which comes to the Princess theater next Thursday. It's not simply an outdoor story of adventure; its a big picture with a big theme.

CHURCH BENEFIT CONCERT BIG SUCCESS

BY LEAORA BLAKEY

WINTERSBURG, June 24.—A most enthusiastic audience greeted the "Barbed Wire" glee club members at the M. E. Hall on Thursday evening, when the hall fund benefit was given and this enthusiasm waxed warmer and warmer as one after another of the renditions, solos, duets and sextettes were given.

Members of the glee club which so kindly offered their services for the entertainment included the three Phillips brothers, Maurice Phillips, of Santa Ana, Jack Phillips, Santa Ana, and William Phillips, Wintersburg, William Howell, Los Angeles; James Bramley, Santa Ana; John Chapman, Santa Ana, with Mrs. Chapman as accompanist.

The entire program was rendered in the exceptional manner usual with Barbed Wire Glee club concerts which are popular over a large radius.

The club was organized in North Adams, Mass., which is the home town of all of the members, and the years of constant concert work together adds greatly to its merit.

Five solos were rendered during the evening by Maurice Phillips, the noted basso of the club, including "My Dream," "The Jolly Old Monk," "Three For Jack," "Because," "Perfect Day," the latter by request.

Four comic songs, "The Paper Box Song," "Tomorrow," "Little Willie," and "Oh What a Difference In the Morning," were given by Jack Chapman who ofttimes amuses his audience by the unexpected rendition of familiar songs in an unusual manner. Chapman also sang "The Larboard Watch" as a duet in company with Jack Phillips. William Phillips gave "Down the Trail to Home Sweet Home," "Old Kentucky Home," and "Let the Rest of the World Go By," the chorus of the latter being by the sextette.

"All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," familiarly known as the blind man's melody, the production having been written entirely by a man of Liverpool, England, who had lost his sight, was one of the songs by the sextette which was especially appreciated.

Two surprises were sprung during the concert when the names of Rev. J. Scott Willmarth and John Murdy appeared in numbers sung by the sextette, causing a ripple of mirth at the expense of these two good natured members of the audience.

"Hear Dem Bells," was sung as a solo by Jack Chapman with the entire club joining in the chorus.

Two medleys were also among the appreciated numbers on the program.

The lovely new hall for the benefit of which the concert was given was gaily decked in fern streamers and Shasta daisies and the largest crowd yet entertained at the new structure was present.

Home made candies were sold during the intermissions and the amount added to the building fund by the combined efforts of those responsible for the entertainment was $45.

EVENING SALUTATION

"Beneath this starry arch, Naught resteth or is still."

THE PEOPLE WANT IT DONE

The proposal that California pass the Water and Power act, which is to be voted on as an initiative measure in November, in itself is evidence of the spirit of reaching out for bigger things in California.

As never before, the people realize the high value of the latent resources of the state. They have full knowledge, by reason of examples of various kinds of development, of the transformations that can be worked in California through irrigation. They know what electric power means. That water conservation and flood control go hand in hand, is apparent.

There are tremendous problems to be solved—and solved they will be. If private capital and initiative fail to do the big things that the people of this state desire done, the people will do the big things themselves. They may anyhow. The thing that the public utilities fear most about the Water and Power act is the willingness on the part of powerful organizations in California, inluding the California League of Municipalities, the State Federation of Labor and the Federation of American Farmers, to get behind a movement such as is voiced in the act. That willingness is an indication of a state of mind, an insisting desire on the part of the people to develop power, to conserve and distribute water and to secure flood control.

The present Water and Power act may be faulty, as its opponents vehemently declare it to be. It may be so full of holes that, legally and economically, it leaks like the proverbial sieve. But it means a great deal to those who can read and interpret the mind of the people of this state. It means that California desires a vast number of things done, and, what is more to the point, it proposes to see that they are done. If the public utilities now in existence, or to be formed, fail to move forward as rapidly as the people of this state think they should move, the public utilities may rest assured that some other water and power act, should the present act be defeated in November, will be presented and fought for.

In other words, if the power companies now in existence in this state desire the privilege of developing the power resources of this state, they had better keep busy.

A Wall Street banker says that school children own the majority of Uncle Sam's $683,000,000 of "baby bonds"—thrift bonds. It is probable that American children own enough of these bonds to wipe out the entire national debt of Mexico.

PRAISE FOR SWING

Those who have followed Congressman Phil D. Swing's work at Congress feel that he deserves re-election by acclamation.

Nobody could have worked harder than has Swing. Moreover, he gets somewhere with the things he starts.

Here is what the Redlands Facts, whose editor State Senator Lyman M. King has been considered as likely to be a candidate for congressman, not this year but some other year, has to say about Swing:

> Reports from Washington are to the effect that the Swing bill for the control of the Colorado river and the building of a great dam at Boulder, under control of the general government, is in favor in the House of Representatives. Congressman Swing, through his intimate knowledge of the situation as the Colorado river affects California and Arizona, is in a position to be of large usefulness to his district and to his state. As one of the younger and newer members of the House, he has stepped to the front rapidly, and on sheer merit.

We notice, here in California, that there are certain interests that are continually crying out that there is too much regulation by government. The railroads, for instance, feel that way about it, so far as they are concerned. And yet, who is it that is shouting loudest because the motor stages and motor trucks are not regulated enough?

GO AFTER BUSINESS

More bales of cotton were consumed by American mills in May than during May, 1919, during the big boom. Exports also were larger.

Many other industries make favorable reports, including steel and autos.

Profits may be small, but production and consumption are booming.

The commercial crop is ripe, ready to be plucked.

The business organization that does not go after business hammer-and-tongs, both by personal salesmanship and advertising—is overlooking a good bet.

The road is clear.

Take off the brakes.

Russia stands pat on her offer to borrow money from any country that will wipe previous loans off the slate.

PROOF BY THE RECORDS

Deaths by alcohol in New York City, doctors report, are four-fifths fewer than in the old saloon days.

New York police add that arrests for public drunkenness are less than a third as many as in 1913.

The national situation is similar.

But still there are people who believe that "there's more drunkenness than ever before."

The wish is father of the thought.

The dyed-in-the-wool wet has himself hypnotized on the liquor question.

No, there are no more "trusts". There are only "mergers".

MODERN ALADDIN'S LAMP

Corn-cobs are being turned into automobile fuel, also a hard-rubber substitute used for phonograph records, pipe stems, varnish, buttons and electrical parts.

This commercial alchemy happens not in Germany, famous for its utilization of by-products, but right here in America. It is the result of six years of research by La Forge and Mains, chemistry experts of the Department of Agriculture.

Chemical engineering is one of the biggest fields open to young men today.

It is the modern Aladdin's Lamp.

They Prove Too Much

San Bernardino Sun

We are in receipt of a communication from the Motor Carriers Association, a state-wide organization of freight passenger carriers, asking us to give space to the following, which is cheerfully done:

In 1918 automobiles in California traveled one and one-quarter billion passenger miles.

In 1922 they will travel nine and one-quarter billion passenger miles—more than four times the passenger mileage of all the railroads in California put together.

That's what became of the cream of the railroad's short haul. The automobiles of private ownership took it away from them, not the motor carriers

The railroads built but 314 miles of new track in 1920. They abandoned 1,626 miles of old track in 1921. They are unable to finance any improvements. They can possibly handle 80 per cent. of the normal business of the country. Today we are doing about 65 per cent. of the country's normal 100 per cent. business. Prosperity would mean 110 per cent. to 120 per cent.

The President says prosperous times are on the way.

If they are there will be a railroad deficit in transportation of from 20 per cent. to 45 per cent.

The motor carriers are the only form of tranhportation that can make up this deficit.

Which does nothing but emphasize the argument which The Sun made, and which this is supposed to offset. We do not have to be persuaded of the advantages of motor trucks for short-haul freight. We are already "sold" on that. Nobody who studies the situation can avoid the conclusion that the trucks operate at a saving over steam or electric lines, and if they can save freight costs, they must be permitted to do so.

But that is not conceding that they ought to be allowed to take freight away from the rail lines without paying the same tax to the state that the rail lines pay, nor is it agreeing that the trucks carrying six to twelve tons are to be permitted to pound to pieces the highways that the tax payers, not the truck owners, paid for.

This is the only question at issue, and the Motor Carriers Association understands it very well—so well that it maintained a formidable and successful lobby at Sacramento during the legislative session of 1921 and prevented the sort of a tax that ought to be levied on trucks for the support of the state, and also the greatly increased license fees that ought to be charged for the upkeep of the highways.

The trucks are here to stay. They have a legitimate field. But they must pay equitably for the prvilege of occupying it.

Should Accept Majority

Sacramento Bee

The latest returns in Ireland indicate the victorious election of a large majority in the new Parliament in favor of the Free State.

In Dublin, the Free State candidates received seven times the vote of their opponents, and in some of the provinces leading opponents of the treaty have been defeated.

Now that the voice of the people has been heard, it is the sacred and patriotic duty of the opposition to abide peacefully by its decision.

Nothing is to be gained by assuming a truculent attitude, by plotting a military dictatorship, by refusing to accept in good faith the decision entered at the polls.

Irish self-government will receive a tremendous setback unless the elected spokesmen of the people are permitted to exercise their functions under the new constitution.

This involves no surrender of principle by those who believe the present arrangement does not do justice in full to the demands of the Irish nation.

They can continue to work and speak and write in behalf of their ideals.

They can seek by every peaceful means to convert the majority to their view.

But beyond that point they cannot go, and be loyal at the same time to democratic principles.

Greatest American Women

Pasadena Star-News

Who are the greatest twelve American women, living today? The National League of Women Voters passed the problem of selecting them on to the Women's Joint Congressional Committee. And that organization feels that it should have man-help in choosing, hence five prominent men will be asked to assist. Request that a list be made of twelve women who are preeminent in this country today came from a woman writer for Chilean publications.

He would be a rashly brave man who would undertake, offhand, or even after careful study, to rush in where these feminine "angels fear to tread." If the task were to select the greatest twelve American women since the founding of the Nation—women living or dead—the task would be simpler. Harriet Beecher Stowe, Frances B. Willard, Clara Barton, Julia W. Howe, Susan B. Anthony—these are a few. One could add to these names others of illustrious standing in the Hall of Fame. There are great living women—in truth, so many of them, that the choosing of any twelve of them as being preeminent would be a very delicate thing to to.

Reprimand Is Merited

Long Beach Press

It fell to the son of the late Colonel Roosevelt, now assistant secretary of the navy—in Secretary Denby's absence acting secretary—to condemn the cruel slight put upon Ensign Leonard Kaplan, a Jew, and a member of the 1922 graduating class of the Annapolis Naval Acamedy. The reprimand went to Ensign J. L. Olmsted, editor of the Lucky Bag, year book of the class of '22. The treatment accorded Ensign Kaplan was denounced as "cruel and unwarranted" and Rear-Admiral Wilson, superintendent at Annapolis, denounced it as "a low down, miserable trick".

That this slight was not directed at Ensign Kaplan because of racial prejudice is the assurance given by Acting Secretary Roosevelt. He finds that the records of the naval academy show that, in the class of 1922, nine men entered their faith as Jewish; "certain of these men were among the most popular in the class". Furthermore, says Mr. Roosevelt, "a number of our prominent officers in the past and at this time are either Jewish or of Jewish extraction." To this Mr. Roosevelt added the comment that "the traditions of our country have always been exemplified by our navy; we pride ourselves that in the service there are no distinctions of race or creed."

It is pleasing to know that, bad and un-American though this incident was, it was not grounded in racial prejudice or animosity.

Coming Events Cast Their Shadows

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

KICK—FORWARD!

Kick!

Kickers are all right—if they kick in the right direction. But be sure to kick ahead, and not behind.

Kick to get something and to get somewhere. Kick to a good purpose. For to kick forcefully in the right direction is to be Somebody, eventually.

Kick to grow.

Our forefathers kicked against taxation without representation and founded a nation. Wendell Phillips kicked against human slavery and helped to free a race. The Allies kicked against the Kaiser and his hordes and made the world safe for civilization and humanity. History favors Kickers—who kick to grow.

Kick with a smile on your face and determination in your heart. For the kicking business fares badly with bitterness and revenge taking tickets at the gate.

Kick hardest of all against your own faults and failures and bad habits. And kick against everything useless—time-wasting, cheap gossip, aimless people, habits that sap your power.

Kick for recognition when you have real worth to show. Kick for knowledge. Kick for principle. Kick for a place on which to stand squarely and honestly. And then kick out hard to make good there. But in all your kicking, remember—

Kicking is the means and not the end.

And after you have kicked your kick, pass on. Take the step your kick cleared the way for. Get ready for another kick—ahead.

HEALTH

SOMETHING ABOUT HOW TO KEEP WELL

INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

Generally infantile paralysis passes directly from the sick to the well person, yet it may be transmitted by a third, who has been in contact with a victim.

The early symptoms, as a rule, are fever, weakness, fretfulness or irritability and vomiting. Later there is pain in the back, neck, arms or legs, accompanied by great weakness. Often paralysis does not result; these are known as abortive cases. They, however, are as infectious as the others. If paralysis is to occur it usually appears from the second to the fifth day.

The germ or tiny virus of the disease is present in the discharges from the nose, throat and bowels of patients. It may also be present in the noses and throats of healthy children in the same family. Thus it is necessary to keep the children from a family in which there is a case of infantile paralysis away from other children.

All cases of infantile paralysis must be reported to the local department of health, which then placards the house.

During an infantile paralysis epidemic it is well to observe certain rules.

The house or apartment should be kept absolutely clean.

Windows should be screened against flies.

Garbage should not be allowed to accumulate; its receptacle should be kept tightly covered.

All forms of vermin, bed bugs, roaches and body-lice, should be killed.

Bodily cleanliness is especially important.

The best preventive of infantile paralysis is not patent medicine but absolute cleanliness and a strict observance of those few important rules of hygiene.

EFFICIENCY IN READING

Minneapolis Journal

Much has been said and heard of efficiency in business and industrial production, but not many have given thought to efficiency in reading. In a recent address before school principals and superintendents of this state Dr Ernest Horn of the department of education in the University of Iowa pointed out that most people do not know whether they read seventy words a minute or four hundred.

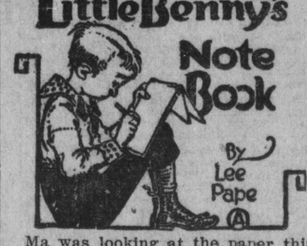

"They know how many miles they can go on a gallon of gasoline, but they don't know how many thoughts they can collect in a given period." And, curiously enough, Dr. Horn finds that rapid readers, who sight whole phrases and sentences at a time, retain what they read better than those who read word by word and move their lips as they go.

Some men, like Theodore Roosevelt, manage to acquire vast funds of knowledge in various fields, while they lead active and busy careers. Much of the secret of such acquisition lies in the art of rapid and accurate reading. For it is a fact that efficiency in this line can be cultivated. Day dreaming and dawdling while one reads is a habit that grows by practice, while speed and accuracy come with cultivation.

Perhaps a more common and serious mistake in reading is the failure to get a writer's point of view. Critical communications in papers and magazines frequently bear witness to the fact that many fail to get the viewpoint of an author whom they criticise. This sometimes requires feeling and imagination as well as reason.

Much confusion in thought and much bitterness in criticism would be avoided if more readers tried to get the author's point of view. At any rate, proper and improper methods of reading deserve more consideration than they have received. For reading is an art that lends itself to efficiency tests and improvement.

Ma was looking at the paper this aftirnoon and she sed, Heers a recipy for doughnutts, my goodniss how your father used to love doughnutts, Ive got a good mind to make a batch this aftirnoon and serprize him, and he'll think Nora made them and I wont tel l him eny diffren till after he's eaten them, I havent made them for yeers and yeers, but theres an old saying, wat you have done once you can do agen.

G ma, thats a grate ideer, pop will be glad all rite, I sed. Meening I would, and ma went down in the kitchen and made the doughnutts and after suppir Nora brawt in a hole plate full for dizzert, pop saying, Ah, doughnutts, Nora must of bin feeling ambitious today.

And he took one and took a bite out of it saying, It dont taist like eny doughnutt I ever taisted.

Me thinking, G good nite, And I started to make all kinds of faces at pop so he would know ma made them, and all of a sudden he saw me, saying, Benny, have you got a tooth ake?

No sir, I sed, and pop sed, Well then wats the ideer of the terrible faces? and I sed, Was I making faces? and pop sed, Either that or Im getting the delerium trimmings. And he took another bite out of the doughnutt saying, This thing looks like a daughnut but thats as far as it goes in that direcktion. Wich I started to make more faces and he sed, Now that boy either has a tooth ake or he's going dippy, and ma sed, I bleeve he's jest making faces to tell you I made those doughnutts, but its too late now enyway after the remarks you passed about them.

Yee gods, wat remarks? sed pop, and ma sed, Ferst you sed they dident taist like eny doughnutts you ever taisted and then you sed all they did was look like doughnuts, and pop sed, Certeny I made those remarks, naturally, and they dont taist like eny doughnutts I ever taisted , they taist 1000 times better ,and wats more, as I sed, they may look like doughnutts but they taist like some wonderfill food of the gods, sutch as ambrosia, or atter of roses, and jest to prove I knew wat I was tawking about Im going to eat 5 in rapid succession.

Wich he did, and after suppir he looked kind of sad about something but he dident say wat.

The Wise Virgin

By Berton Braley

"Be good, my child, and let who will be clever,"
Charles Kingsley said that mouthful of advice;
But I'd suggest it does no harm whatever
To be both good and clever. To be nice
A lady doesn't have to be a dumbbell
He brains won't hurt her any with a man.
"Be good, my child—" but do not be a mum belle,
You ought to be as clever as you can!"

"Fine feathers," so the moralists may warn you
"Don't make fine birds!" And that's no idle word,
But feathers that are fine won't make folks scorn you
If you are, otherwise, a noble bird!
Clothes do not make the man or yet the woman,
But they are mostly what the world will scan,
And—knowing human nature's very human—
The wise dame dresses smartly as she can!

"Beauty is but skin deep," the preachers tell you,
And "Handsome is, as handsome does," they say;
But just the same, wherever you may dwell, you
Will learn that beauty isn't in the way.
You will not find that it's a waste endeavor
To make yourself a pleasant sight to scan,
"Be good, my child"—and be as well-dressed, clever,
And just about as pretty as you can!

Scripture

Every one therefore that heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them, shall be likened unto a wise man, who built his house upon a rock. And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the wind blew, and beat upon that house, and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.—Matthew 7: 25-26.

Odd and Interesting

Several hundred farmers started one of the first temperance movements in America when they met at Litchfield, Conn., in 1789, and pledged themselves not to use intoxicants in doing farm work the following year.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Sprinkle-Blow Tells Tale

By Olive Roberts Barton

The Twins were on their way up to the Moon when they met the Weatherman, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, riding to meet them on his magic umbrella.

"Hello!" called Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, "did you find the Moon -Man?"

"No," answered Nancy. "And we asked everybody we met."

"Well, hop on behind me," said Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, "and I'll tell you what happened on the Moon after you left."

As soon as Nancy and Dick were nicely settled and the big green umbrella was turned Moonwards again, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow told his story:

"I was in the engine-house where Mr. Peerabout keeps all the handles for running the Moon when I heard someone laughing fit to kill.

"I looked out and there was Comet-Legs, the rascally fellow, who has caused all this mischief, shaking something out of a salt-shaker all over the Moon."

"Oh, that was the shaker with the magic powder," exclaimed Nick. "He stole it!"

Mr. Sprinkle-Blow nodded.

"And what do you s'pose was happening? Every tree and stone and flower turned square the minute the powder touched it. I never saw such a sight in my life!"

"What did you do?" asked Nancy.

"Do!" exclaimed Sprinkle-Blow. "I chased him. But wait till I tell you everything. When I caught him the shaker fell out of his hand to the ground, the top came off, and the powder spilled. The next thing I knew the Moon itself had turned square!"

"Then the little woodchuck baby was right," Nick said to Nancy, "and it wasn't a dream after all! What happened then, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow?"

"I whistled for my Four Winds," said the Weatherman, "and they came hurrying as fast as they could from Bluster-Gust Land."

Who Owns Cars?

Europe's Roads

By Edward S. Jordan

WHEN the Twentieth Century, Limited, starts its flight from Chicago to New York, it speeds away on ribbons of steel and stops several times in a nine hundred mile run to change engines and lubricate all frictional parts.

When an automobile starts on a flying trip from Chicago to New York, it's ten chances to one that the only attention the car gets en route pertains to gas and oil and water. Some times not enough of these.

Yet people wonder why automobiles, which are employed by eleven million Americans for individual transportation, sometimes involve service charges. If any other machine in the world, so accurately construction, was handled with the same degree of carelessness, mechanics would classify the owners as ignorant or destructive.

IN China the motor car is in great demand as a feature for every parade that is held. No procession is considered complete without an automobile. While China is supposed to be several hundreds years behind America in some respects, she is only about eighteen years behind the United States in this particular.

If you have an idea that the American people have recovered from their curiosity in motor cars, just stop on some prominent corner in sophisticated New York or wise Chicago, and open up your hood. A crowd will gather immediately and a discussion will start on the relative merits of the two cycle or the four cycle—the full floating or the semi floating.

It is certainly a fascinating business and the greatest subject for conversation in the world except possibly baseball.

WHERE are all the automobiles going? That question is being asked this summer by nearly every man you meet. They are going into

SECRET MARK TO IDENTIFY AUTO WHEN STOLEN IS URGED

Busy Season For Car Thief Here as Open Road Call Is Heard, Claim

OWNERS ARE CARELESS

Fine Suggests Initials On Fly Wheel as One Way to Aid In Recovery

(By HORACE FINE)
(Automobile Editor of The Register)

Mr. Automobile Owner, have you secret marks on your automobile by which you could identify the machine if it were stolen tonight?

Crooks know that this is the season of the year when motorists travel the most and when they are more careless in leaving their machines where they can be "picked" easily with the result that more auto thieving is going on now than in the winter months.

Do you know that when crooks steal a car they lose little or no time in oblitering registered marks and other possible traces of identification?

Thief Repaints Car

The thief repaints the car, changes the serial numbers on the engine and chassis, and eliminates all other marks that may serve as means of identification by the owner.

Police and insurance men say little is left by which the motorist may identify his car, after it is stolen, unless he has taken the precaution to place a secret mark some place.

Dents in the fenders or other marks that may be on a machine are easily obliterated by crooks. Frequently the thief takes a stolen car to a rebuilding factory to have it made over and completely changed.

Bootleggers Dealt Hard Blow Under New Ruling On Rum Autos' Seizure

Don't loan your automobile, if you have reason to suspect that your friend may use it for conveying liquids of an intoxicating nature.

Because if he should get caught —goodbye to your car!

Bootleggers here today discussed the harsh blow that United States District Judge Bledsoe dealt to them in Los Angeles when he decreed that the question of actual ownership would hereafter not enter into cases involving illegel transportation of liquor in automobiles.

The government, under this ruling, will automatically confiscate every automobile in which are caught persons with liquor. or in which liquor is found concealed.

PLANT ENLARGED HERE TWICE IN PAST YEAR

Indicating the rapid expansion of business, Brooks and Mitchell today have under way another addition to their auto shop at 701 West Fourth street, the second to be made since the firm started operations less than a year ago.

The new addition is being made to provide a department for auto body building. The firm has obtained the services of W. E. Harris, who has had charge of body building shops in Los Angeles and Long Beach.

Brooks and Mitchell will specialize in the building of bodies, according to members of the firm. Wheel work will be an added feature, the firm having facilities for doing work that formerly was sent to outside points.

TO OPEN COUNTY PARK ROAD IN THIRTY DAYS

Concrete Pouring Will Be Completed By Next Monday, Aim

The paved road to Orange county park will be open to traffic in less than thirty days, according to Nat Neff, of the county highway department, who today announced that the contractors possibly would complete the pouring of concrete by Monday night at the latest.

It is expected that the park end of the new paving job will be available to traffic tomorrow, as concrete pouring was started at that end of the road.

The improvement will make travel to the county playground more attractive than ever and will materially lessen the time in which the drive may be made by automobile, it was pointed out.

Neff announced also that engineering work is now in progress on the Modjeska road, between El Toro and Modjeska, preparatory to grading that will result in elimination of some of the more severe climbs on the hill. At some points the grade is thirty-five per cent and will be lowered by eight or nine per cent.

It is expected that the work will begin in two weeks.

1922 CAR FEATURE IS IN VALUE, CLAIM

"With prices almost as low as they were before the war, value is the outstanding characteristic of the motor car of 1922," said R. V. Turner, sales manager for the Charles L. Davis company, local agents for the Marmon and Oldsmobile automobiles.

"The motor car buyer is getting more for his money this year than ever before. The price reduction is far greater than is shown by the number of dollars each model of car has been reduced, because to the standard pre-war car has been added the accumulated refinements designed in the last few years.

"The 1922 car is made of better materials than any car before it. It is assembled with an accuracy which was known only to a few manufacturers a few years ago. It is better equipped to use the present grade of gasoline and better lubricated. The service charges are lower and it costs less to replace parts.

"Cord tires, cowl lights, better finished bodies and other features once associated with only the highest priced cars have become standard equipment in the medium priced model."

TELLS METHODS OF 'FIXING' BATTERY

"Just as good as a new one" is a statement often made and seldom true," said A. E. Roedeske, Hobbs battery agent, with Stein's motor car service, 426 West Fourth street.

"The need is for the good battery, the standard battery of honest construction but many battery fixers have fallen for the idea that they can build a battery as well, but a lot cheaper than the manufacturer who uses volume production methods and who has the pick of the market for supplies.

"The rebuilt battery is often made of parts from discarded batteries which have just enough more life in them to get by the purchase date. A few new parts may be added, a new case and a lot of new paint and then the sad refrain "just as good."

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM!

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, over 50 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change." You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as try to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatment supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. It took Mr. Asheiman fifty years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," now being distributed free by an autnority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of "The Register" wishes "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to H. P. Clerawater, No. 1329-A Street, Hallowell, Maine. Send how, lest you forget! If not a sufferer, cut out this notice and hand this good new and opportunity to some afflicted friend. All who send will receive it by return mail without any charge whatever.

NEW CHALMERS IN SECOND GEAR MAKES STEEP PUMP HOUSE HILL

Chalmers touring car on what is known as the pump house grade, one of the stiff test grades used by local auto dealeds in demonstrating power of motors. The hill is in the Lemon Heights district near the Marcy ranch and is recognized as a grade for low gear work. The Chalmers makes the hill in second gear and with ease. The men in the picture—Standing at front of car, Horace Fine, automobile editor of The Register, who witnessed a demonstration this week; at rear of machine, Fred S. Beckwith, sales manager for Christian Brothers, agents for the Chalmers and Maxwell; at right, R. O. McCune, superintendent of service department of Christian Brothers and expert driver who piloted the auto in the test.

The forty per cent grade of pump house hill, in the Lemon Heights district, doesn't worry the new Chalmers in second gear.

This fact was demonstrated to the automobile editor of The Register this week, when he was the guest of Fred S. Beckwith, sales manager for Christian Brothers, Santa Ana distributors for the Chalmers and Maxwell, and R. O. McCune, superintendent of the service department at the Christian Brothers' garage, on a demonstration trip up the hill.

That the new Chalmers motor is meeting the expectation of the engineers of the Chalmers' factory, is evidenced in tests on this hill as well as in demonstrations on other test climbs used by Chalmers dealers in various section, according to Beckwith.

Smooth Power Flow

The road conditions on the grade, where rough spots interfere with traction, make the demonstration all the more interesting, and evidences the smooth and continuous flow of power from the new motor. Without labor and without knocking by reason of the stiff pull and slow speed, the Chalmers negotiated the grade with an ease that was surprising even to the two men who were more or less familiar with the performance of the car.

Heavy fly wheel, light pistons, hot spark and the Chalmers' method of heating the gas before it enters the combustion chambers are given credit by Beckwith for the remarkable pulling power and smooth operation of the motor.

Makes Another Test

McCune, who drove the machine, put the car to another test on the trip that gave further proof of the claims of the factory that the Chalmers power is all-sufficient for unusual demands.

After driving Lemon Heights grade "on high", McCune drove the machine back to a sharp turn near the top of the grade, halted the car, started on high and picked up speed to twenty-five miles an hour in the distance of three hundred yards.

The point where this test was made is the steepest on Lemon Heights grade and worries most of the high powered cars when they reach it under full steam ahead.

DRIVING D ON'TS PREPARED BY AUTO CLUB

With twelve teams representing various clubs in the county now active in a campaign to make the highways doubly safe for motorists, the following "don'ts," prepared by the Auto club of Orange county, are of particular worth and interest:

Don't insist on your legal right of way at an intersection at the expense of the safety of yourself, car and occupants.

Don't drive too close to the car ahead. The driver may stop it without signaling.

Don't ever neglect to give signals when turning or stopping.

Don't fail to slow down at all intersections.

Don't forget always to keep on the right side of the road. This should be particularly observed on curves and at night time. It is very dangerous to drive on the wrong side of the road at a curve as the fellow driving in th eopposite direction is liable to suffer.

Don't pass another car at an intersection.

Don't try to pass another car unless the road ahead is clear.

Don't take chances at railroad crossings.

Don't get peevish at the motor policeman if he calls you to account. Remember he has an unpleasant job and is only doing his duty.

Don't for get to watch out for the road hog and the speed king. They cause a great many accidents.

SAYS CAMPING IS NOW REDUCED TO SCIENCE

The call of the open road is becoming more insistent each day, according to John W. Campbell, manager of the Santa Ana store of the Western Auto Supply company. Camping has been reduced to a science, he says, and in support of his statement he refers to the many articles which his company sells and which have been developed specially for motorists who enjoy camp life.

"Camp equipment is now made so that every bit of room in the car may be utilized," Campbell said today. "Many articles are built in combination so that they may be stowed away in small space. Tents are combined with beds and there are gasoline stoves and small, compact furnaces that offer stove facilities without taking up any large amount of room in an automobile."

ANNOUNCE OPENING OF AUTO SUPPLY STATION

Platt's Auto service, Third and Bush streets, today announced the opening of its complete supply station, following the completion of alterations and improvements that have been in progress for several weeks past.

George Platt, with Townsend and Medbery, and his father, H. F. Platt, formerly with the Santa Fe, are proprietors of the new station, with the latter giving his personal attention to the business.

Parking, gas and oil, washing and greasing, tires, battery testing, air for pumping tires and other items that make a complete auto service are available at the station. A vacuum cleaner for use on enclosed cars is announced as a feature. Special attention will be given to cars parked during theater hours, with a charge of 15 cents for the service.

NEW NASH SPORT MODEL ARRIVES IN SANTA ANA

The May Motor company today was showing the four-passenger sport model Nash, the latest creation of the Nash factory.

The new model reached the local garage yesterday and for the first few days of next week will be on display at the company's present quarters, on Main street adjoining the city hall. Later it will be on display at the new garage of the firm at the corner of Second and Sycamore streets which the company expects to occupy the latter part of the week.

The new product is built on attractive lines and has the same six cylinder motor that has made the Nash so popular, according to Arthur May.

The sport model is finished in maroon color, with mohair top of khaki color. Barrell head lights, with parking lamps of like design attached on each side of the cowl, add to the general beauty of the machine.

Upholstering is in Spanish leather in a color harmonizing with the body finish. The cushions are deep and soft and add to the riding comfort of the car.

Wire wheels used in former models have been supplanted by natural wood. Among other features that emphasize changes in the auto are the new type shock absorber springs, and the location of the gasoline guage on the dash.

The new model has just reached the coast," said W. C. May, today. "We expect them to arrive regularly hereafter. The car sells for $1825 and agents everywhere are expecting a big demand for the classy product."

LOCAL FIRM REPORTS SALE OF 2 MAXWELLS

Christian Brothers, local distributors, report the delivery of Maxwell touring cars this week to W. E. Warren, Huntington Beach, and Glenn C. Wallace, Balboa. The firm unloaded a carload of new Maxwells yesterday.

TAB 150 PILOTS AS 'INVISIBLE EYE' WATCHES TO CUT DOWN ACCIDENTS

Vigilantes, Identify Unknown to All Save Auto Club, Get Results

ONE WARNING ENOUGH

Second Letter Not Needed In Any Case, Official Here Reports

The "invisible eye" is on the motorist of Orange county.

Everywhere on the highways and at all hours, this unseen but all-seeing force is at work.

It is harder, now, for the law-fracturing driver or driveress to "get away with it."

No longer is it possible to "slip over," undetected, a corner cutting exploit, or to cut in on another machine, or to indulge in any other unlawful practices of the highway.

The vigilantes are getting in some powerful licks in the direction of cutting down traffic accidents.

Already the "invisible eye" has been the means of calling a halt on no less than 150 nonchalant drivers who were remiss in their tactics but who thought no one was looking.

Gives Out Signals.

Elmer Heidt, manager of the Santa Ana branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California, gave out the figures today. More than 150 cards have been turned in by the vigilantes since their campaign began, he said.

The vigilantes are members of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs in Santa Ana and in other communities in the county.

It is their duty to watch for infractions of motor statutes and to report them on cards, giving only the license numbers of the offenders. These cards are turned in to the automobile club.

As soon as the complaint cards are received at the local office they are sent to the Los Angeles office, which is termed a clearing house. Here a record of each offense is kept.

The Santa Ana branch office attends to all offenders residing within the county.

Request Co-operation.

The first time a card is received, a letter is sent to the owner of the car, setting forth the offense, and requesting co-operation in supporting the laws.

A reply is requested, and if the addressee indicates a repentant attitude, he will be dealt with more leniently in case another instance comes up.

The second letter is more drastic in tone, and warns the recipient that legal action may follow the continued fracture of the statutes.

Heidt disclosed that so far it had been unnecessary to send a second letter in any case.

"I find that the moral effect of the law is fully as great as the actual fear of consequences," Heidt declared.

"Scores of men, some of them prominent in business, have come to me, asking if their name has been turned in, and frankly admitting that they have been careless.

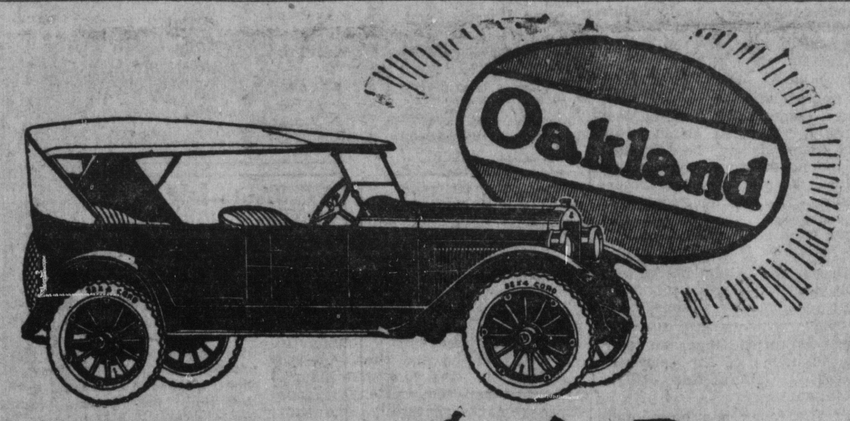

Brings Results.

"This attitude is bound to produce results."

Furthermore, Heidt revealed that the identity of the vigilantes is known only to the auto club.

Since the beginning of the campaign, recently, Heidt said, the per-

Look What $1145 Buys

Look what $1145 buys. Look carefully and you'll see the most wonderful value ever offered among motor cars.

This is not a boast—the facts prove it. If you could see every part of this new Oakland 6-44, if they were as obvious as the beautiful new body designs, you would know that this New Oakland is the car you should own.

It is designed and built to give years of service on the road—not in repair shops.

It embodies features that have previously been incorporated only in expensive cars. You have only to be shown these features to link the new Oakland with cars like Locomobile, Cadillac and Pierce.

Come in and let us point out the wonderful features that make this new Oakland the sensation of the motor car world—features that were responsible for the Oakland's sweeping victory in the recent Yosemite economy run—features that make this the car you should drive. Only $1145 factory.

SHOWS UNIQUE WORK DONE BY REO WAGON

Reo Speed Wagon, which has seen hard service, shown towing logs in Maine lumber district.

There is no limit to the usefulness of a Reo speed wagon, according to H. H. Dale and company, Reo distributors.

The accompanying illustration shows the speed wagon performing one of its many duties in Bangor, Maine. This truck was used during the winter of 1920 and 1921 for hauling pulp wood. During the fall it was used for hauling hay, grain and potatoes in addition to its lumber hauling activities. Later in the season it served for hauling supplies into the woods and also taking men to the lumber camps.

This spring L. J. Butterfield, who owns the speed wagon, conceived the idea of towing his logs with it, instead of the launch which is ordinarily used. He found that this worked much better, because of the shallow water and he is able to tow a boom of logs wherever the water is deep enough to float them.

The speed wagon is now being used at the mill for hauling long lumber, with a trailer. The ordinary load is 1400 feet of dry boards, or 1000 feet of green lumber.

SECRET MARK TO IDENTIFY AUTO WHEN STOLEN

The owner has no chance to identify his car, unless he has a private mark or a number of such marks in positions where he may readily and accurately identify them.

Suggests Identification

The most practical way of making identification marks must be left to the ingenuity of the individual owner, and they should be known only to himself and members of his family. Various marks should be stamped on the chassis and engine.

Initials punched on the fly wheel, inside the axles or other spots where they cannot be readily seen may be suggested. It is not a bad idea after making a certain mark, to measure a distance and punch a hole as a guide to its location and further identification.

THE SPOTLIGHT

the hands of police who have learned that they simply cannot carry on the day's work and travel from the place where they have to live to be comfortable, to the place where they have to do business, without the use of an automobile.

But people ask, "Isn't it a fact that nearly everyone has a car?" Just walk to the front window of your home and look down the street and see whether you can't pick out three or four neighbors who have not yet known the great joy and convenience of automobile ownership.

Mr. Durant once said that the saturation point for motor cars would never be reached until they stopped growing boys.

* * * *

ONE hundred and thirty-five thousand people sat for seven or eight hours in a wooden bowl at Indianapolis to see a dozen high speed motor cars tear around the track in a five hundred mile race. The man who won the race travelled for five hours steadily at a speed approximating one hundred miles an hour.

No one was killed. This is always more or less of a disappointment to part of the crowd, but a great tribute to the manufacturers who have built stability into motor cars after twenty years of experimental work.

It is just twenty years since Henry Ford and Alexander Winton risked their lives racing one against the other, at a speed of about twenty miles an hour.

* * * *

WHEN Roy Chapin, president of the Hudson Company, drove one of the first Oldsmobile overland to New York many years ago, he had difficulty in getting into one of the New York hotels because he looked as if he had been under the car throughout the journey.

It was such a remarkable accomplishment at that time to drive a car from Detroit to New York, that he should have been received by the city officials. Now a motor car flight across the continent from San Francisco to New York is such a common-place thing that it must be done in less than five days' time in order to cause a ripple.

This describes the progress made by the motor car in the past fifteen years.

* * * *

FOR years motor car manufacturers in America deplored the fact that European roads were better than our own. Now it is a great question whether in many localities in the United States our roads are not better than they are in the greater part of Europe.

If we consider the world as a whole, it is a very significant fact that American motor cars, because they had to be built for rough roads in this country, are the only ones which can meet the requirements of the bad roads in those sections of the world where road development has not progressed.

American cars have been built for rough work in the rural and desert sections of the United States. American manufacturers will profit in the future through handicaps of the past.

ORANGE, June 24.—Miss Josephine Meyer was a business visitor to Los Angeles today.

Mrs. Ben Nesbmith is again home after a ten days' visit in San Diego and La Jolla.

The Rev. John Hall and daughter, Dorothy, now of Pomona but formerly of Orange, were recent guests with friends here.

Mrs. Sam Hahn and Miss Mable Hahn of Los Angeles are at the Herschel Gullege home on North Olive. Mrs. Gullege, who has been very ill is steadily growing better.

Mrs. W. H. Flippen was a visitor in Los Angeles yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Eye and Mr. Frank Eye of Elsinore are visiting relatives here this week, coming down Wednesday to attend the Nuffer-Elliott wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Oatis Evans and Miss Alma Evans arrived from Santa Marie last evening. They will vacation here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Berger have as house guests this week Mr. and Mrs. V. Poynton, of Riverside.

Miss Claire Dewey will attend the summer term at the Cumnock School of Expression.

I. Lee Collins, of Villa Park, was taken by ambulance to the Sisters' hospital in Los Angeles Wednesday. Mr. Collins has been very ill for some weeks.

The Ladies' Missionary society of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. R. W. Jones on Thursday for an all-day session. Mrs. Robert Clelland, president of the Los Angeles Woman's Presbyterial, was the speaker of the afternoon. About forty ladies were in attendance. A covered dish dinner was enjoyed by all.

Rev. G. W. Brook and wife of Missouri are guests for the summer at the McCampbell home, 660 Van Bibber avenue. Mr. Brooks is a brother of Mrs. Mary McCampbell.

TELLS 3 SECRETS OF CORRECT LUBRICATION

The correct lubrication of any motor vehicle depends on three conditions, all of which are well within the control of the operator, according to R. V. Stein, proprietor of Stein's motor car service, 426 West Fourth street, and inventor of the patented piston ring which has met with success.

"These are," Stein said:

"The use of lubricating oil of the highest quality. The use of correct grade of that oil to meet the engine operating conditions exactly. Proper precautions to maintain the quality of the lubricant while in service and to make adjustments to insure its delivery in the correct quantities to the friction surfaces."

LOS ANGELES MANAGER NOTES COUNTY GROWTH

That O. K. Parker, sales manager for Harold L. Arnold, Los Angeles, has his eye on Orange county was disclosed today, with receipt by Townsend and Medbery, Hudson and Essex agents, of a letter from Parker giving a general resume of the building and agricultural operations in Orange county for the past month.

Particular reference is made to the building operations in Santa Ana and Orange, and valuations represented by permits issued are given in figures that are correct.

WESTERN AUTO

HEADQUARTERS FOR — AUTO SUPPLIES - TIRES - CAMP GOODS

All roads, throughout the West, lead to "Western Auto Stores." No matter where you motor, Western Auto Stores are there to serve you, with the largest stock of auto supplies, tires and camping equipment you can find anywhere. By buying at Western Auto you are assured of the same high quality of merchandise, low prices and gratifying guarantee that characterize our whole organization.

AUTO SUPPLIES

For All Cars

RAJO HEADS FOR FORDS

There is no question about the "valve-in-head" type of motor being the most powerful and speedy type ever designed. With the Rajo Head, a regular Ford car can be made to run 55 to 70 miles per hour, and have greater pickup, pep and economy. This head will pay for itself in a short time with the fuel it saves.

Price $65.00 and $87.50

Cooper Cutouts

Know the condition of your motor at all times. A "Cooper," the positive cutout, warns you instantly of any "miss" or leak of compression.

$2.75 to $4.35

Motometer Locks

Hundreds of motometers are stolen every day. Protect yours from being among the list of the "missing." A positive assurance against theft.

Our Price $1.45

AERMORE HORNS

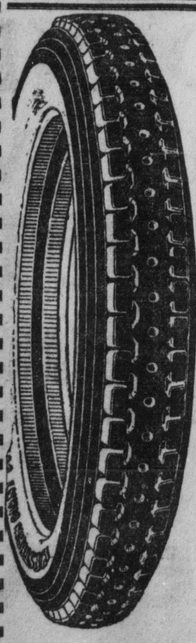

The "politest of horns" is the Aermore. Asks for the right-of-way rather than demands it. Four distinct tones blended into a harmonious sound that is audible above the din of traffic.

Our Price $6.90 to $10.50

OYL-STOP PISTON RINGS

Oil pumping by the motor is the bane of many motorists' existence. The installation of Oyl-stop Rings will positively eliminate this evil, thereby giving you increased power and economy, with plug fouling and carbonizing eliminated.

Our Price, Each, 65c

Western Giant Cords

12,000-Mile Guarantee

"Western Giant" Cords are all that a tire can be. The high, flat tread insures even wear and infinitely more mileage, and the suction cups prevent skidding. We do not believe a better tire is made at any price. Try one and your next set will be "Western Giants."

Camp Comforts

Complete and Compact

Keep Kool Kushions

A clean, cool cushion that completely covers the upholstery and makes driving very cool and comfortable, as the material of which it is made allows free circulation of air; also keep clothes clean and prevents sticking to seat cushions.

Price 90c

Running Board Luggage Carriers

A strong steel luggage carrier is invaluable for camping or touring. Adjustable from a length of 10 to 50 inches, so you can carry various-size packages. Extra strong and substantial. Will not rattle.

$2.75—$4.25

Service Units

This Boyco Service Unit enables you to carry your private service station with you, making available an emergency supply of fuel, oil and water. No car is complete without one.

$6.00 to $7.75

Auto Beds

All the popular and better types of auto beds and camp cots will be found at "Western Auto," where you are sure of getting just the kind that meets with your requirements, and upon which you can entirely depend. Our prices are very reasonable, too.

CAMP TABLES

A table of extreme light weight, yet sturdy enough to hold all of your food and utensils without sagging or tipping. May be used around the house for a sewing or card table. $4.50. Other styles from $7.50 to $12.50

Palmetto Tents

A dandy all-around tent that can easily be set up and taken down, as no guy ropes are used and only one pole is needed. Ideal for that week-end fishing, camping or beach trip. May be procured in white, khaki or striped material.

Our Price

$24.50—$32.50

Water Bags

Perhaps you prefer the water bag to the canteen on account of its "keep cool" attributes, which by a process of evaporation keeps water cool even when hung in the sun. Very handy. Sanitary.

A Business Coupe Of Steel

Dodge Brothers offer to the business public of America an entirely new principle in Coupe body construction.

From framework to window mouldings the body is built of steel. It is the first all-steel closed car ever marketed. This design anticipates every possible requirement of commercial travel. It insures unusual quietness—unusual grace—unusual stamina. It has made it possible to give the Coupe that same lustrous baked-on enamel finish for which Dodge Brothers open cars have long been famous.

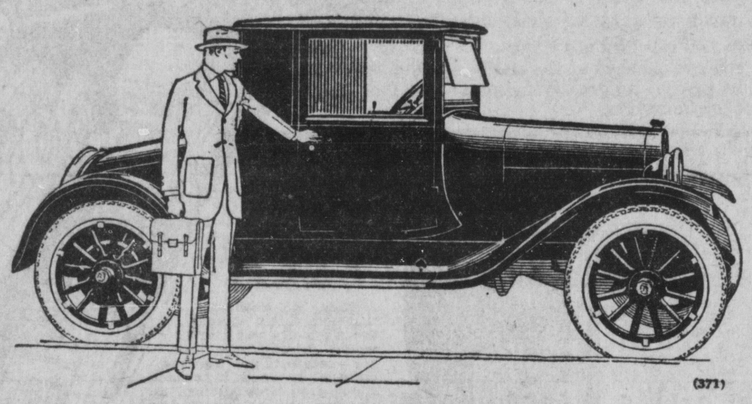

The upholstery is of genuine leather—leather that will wash and wear. The seat is wide and comfortable. Carrying compartments are accessible and spacious. The car is equipped with a heater, dome light, window levers, windshield cleaner, cord tires, Yale door locks, and every other appointment necessary to the owner's comfort and protection.

Built inside and out to withstand the wear and tear of everyday use, it retains the same lightness and beauty of line which you are accustomed to look for in Dodge Brothers cars.

It is the Business Coupe which business people the world over have been expecting—from Dodge Brothers.

SERVICE IS SLOGAN AT BARKER STATION

Service that is service is the big thing Ralph Barker is putting over at Phil's station, since he assumed the management of the gasoline station and storage department, according to statements of his friends.

Barker was with the Home Oil company for four years, part of which time he was a salesman. The company handles Ventura gasoline and oils. The station is handling the products exclusively since Barker took charge June 1. An additional storage tank has been installed and changes made that insure instant service to patrons driving to the plant for gasoline or oil.

Barker is giving his personal attention to the service end of the business and is being complimented upon his innovations. The number of employes has been increased.

Barker has been a resident of Santa Ana for many years and has many friends in Santa Ana and Orange county.

This is declared to be his first business venture and he is evidencing his ambition to succeed by giving high class service and individual attention to the enterprise.

The storage department is under the direct management of Barker and it is announced that the department is available day and night, with a monthly storage charge of $5.

Walter Overton is directing operations of the greasing rack, and he is declared to be giving superior service in lubricating.

WILLS SAINT CLAIR MAKES GRUELLING RUN

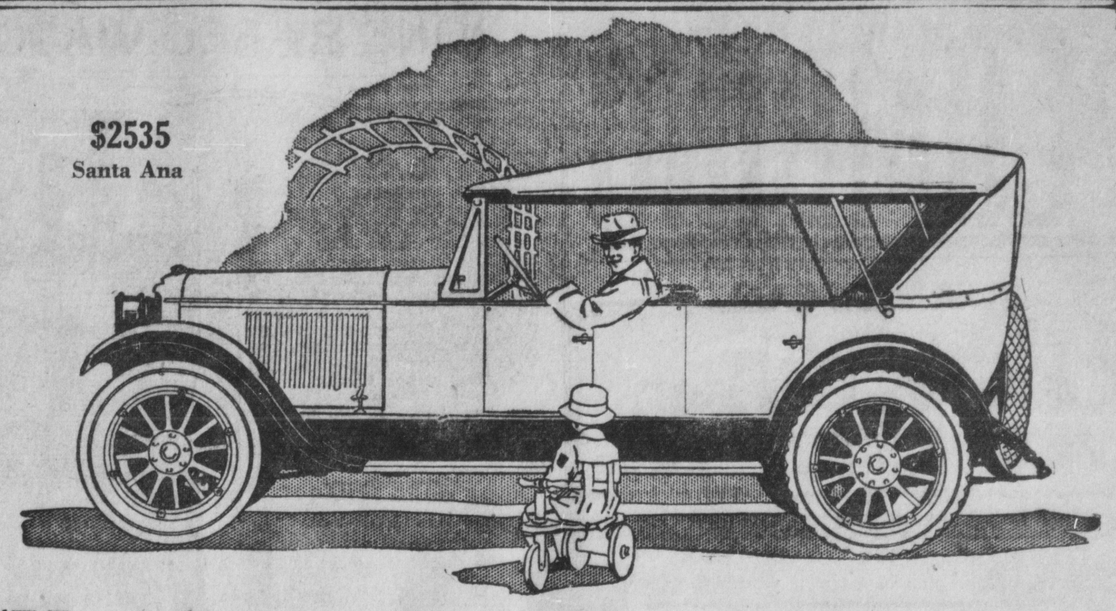

H. H. Kelly, local distributor of the Wills Sainte Clair, declared today that motorists are still discussing the feat of the Wills Sainte Claire which recently made a round-trip run from Santa Ana to Bear Valley in one day.

The car was obliged to surmount extraordinary difficulties to accomplish the feat," Kelly said. "There was snow, water-washed roads, miles of desert sand, stiff grades, trails scarred with ruts and numerous chuck holes, and difficult curves where a slip might mean a fall of hundreds of feet.

"On this run, the car climbed higher than any car had gone this year, up to the time of the performance. The machine averaged 16½ miles to the gallon of gasoline."

"Handsome is as Handsome does"

To merely produce motor cars of rare beauty and distinction is no small accomplishment. Look about you and you will agree that original and artistic creations are scarce.

But to combine truly beautiful body lines with a chassis of heroic strength and stamina is approaching perfection in Motor Car building. And Paige, it would seem, is the supreme example.

The Most Beautiful Car in America speaks for itself so far as original and artistic designing is concerned. Every world's stock chassis speedway record from 5 to 100 miles also speaks with final authority for the Paige 6-66 Daytona chassis.

So, surely, here are the two elements that you desire above all others. A car that you can proudly park with the nation's best. A chassis that will master the highway and out-perform any other stock model on four wheels.

Announcing Change of Management of

PHIL'S SERVICE GARAGE

It is with pleasure that we announce that W. Ralph Barker is now in charge of Phil's Service Garage. Mr. Barker has been connected with The Home Oil Company in Santa Ana for four years in both the wholesale and retail departments, this experience especially fitting him to serve the motorists in the best possible manner. Many improvements have been made that will facilitate the service and instant attention is available both day and night. Walter Overton will remain in charge of the Grease Rack which will be good news to his many friends, as his expert work has made for him a host of customers. The new management announces that especial attention will be given to Storage for $5.00 per month.

HAYS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER COUPE'S WORK

The Oakland coupe is some car! This is the word that comes from Bruce Hays, of Edgar and Hays, Oakland and Paige distributors here, following his arrival at Grants Pass, Oregon, via automobile.

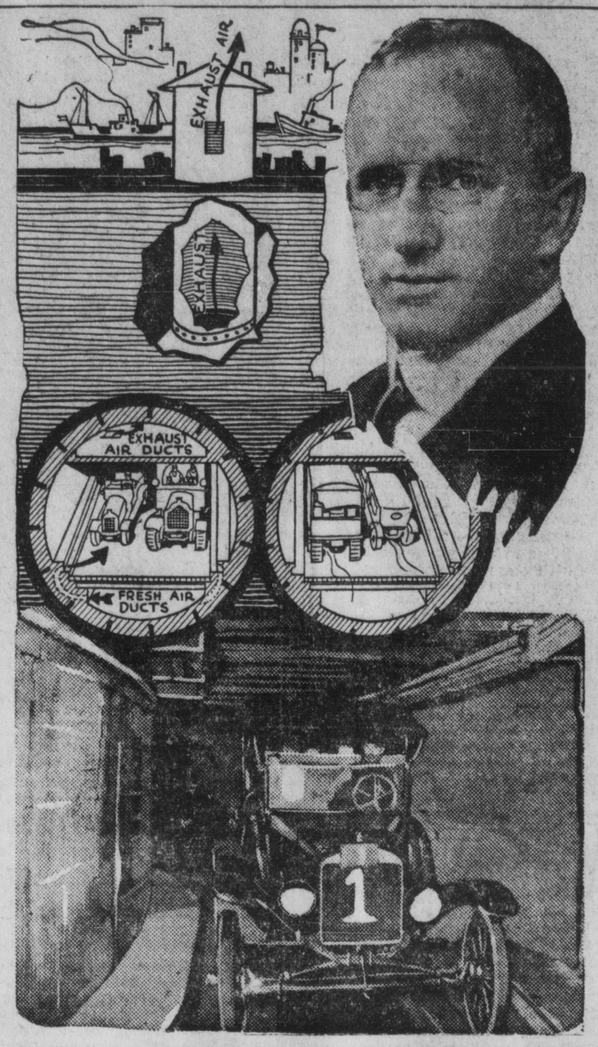

Hays and his wife and daughter, Bernice, are traveling in the North in an Oakland coupe. They will be gone three or four weeks and will visit Portland, Seattle, and possibly British Columbia, according to a note from Hays.

"The coupe is making twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline, and I have not put in oil since leaving Santa Ana," writes Hays.

BEGIN BUILDING OF GIANT AUTO TUNNEL

Sketch shows how Hudson river vehicular tunnel will be made safest and best-ventilated in world. Right, Clifford M. Holland, chief engineer in charge of construction. Below, conducting preliminary test in abandoned Pennsylvania mine.

By ALEXANDER HERMAN

NEW YORK, June 24—Within three years motorists from the West will drive into New York through its newest subway, the Hudson river vehicular tunnel.

They may miss the ferry ride and view of the skyscraper sky line. But they'll come through the best-ventilated tunnel in the world in a steady stream of 1900 cars an hour!

This tunnel will consist of twin tubes 29 feet in diameter and 1½ miles long, built at a cost of $29,000,000!

Work on the project is now being carried on—from both sides of the river.

For a time a local political squabble kept the engineers from starting construction on the New Jersey shore. But Clifford M. Holland, chief engineer, and several associates, went over one night, took pick and shovel and broke the ground without waiting for the formal opening scheduled for July 4.

Poison Problem

Before beginning work, the commissioners in charge had to solve one of the century's most difficult engineering problems.

How could they make sure the tunnel, filled with gases from the exhausts of automobiles, would not become a great death trap?

With aid of federal authorities, they decided to conduct experiments in an old coal mine at Bruceton, Pa.

There they constructed a small tunnel. Conditions were similar to those under the Hudson.

Tests With Autos

Automobiles were sent into the tunnel. Drivers and chauffeurs were examined before and after the tests. Other experiments were conducted in the physiological laboratory at Yale and in the engineering experiment station of the University of Illinois.

It was found no harm would result from exposure to four parts of carbon monoxide, the poison of the exhaust gases, in 10,000 parts of air.

So the engineers decided to build four ventilation shafts which will change completely the air of the Hudson tunnel 42 times an hour—forcing in 3,500,000 cubic feet of fresh air every minute.

The air is admitted through ducts at the bottom of the tubes and exhausted from the top.

"There is absolutely no danger," says Holland. "The 7000-horsepower plants will distribute a steady supply of fresh air. If a machine breaks down, a wrecking crew, stationed in each tube, will help it out quickly.

"At present there are 14 ferry lines stretching over 12 miles carrying traffic across the river. It is estimated 24,000 vehicles cross over each day. And the number is increasing daily.

"The vehicular tunnel will take care of 46,000 daily."

EXPLAINS FULL SCOPE OF WILLARD SERVICE

"Many people still have the mistaken idea that we are here only to look after Willard storage batteries," said H. D. Love, general superintendent of the Orange County Ignition works.

"It is as much the job of this concern to give battery service on all makes of batteries as it is to give Willard service. This organization was not built to its present size and prestige by catering to the Willard owner only. We have other functions equally important to the motoring public of the county.

"In using the term 'ignition' we mean that portion of the equipment that cares for the firing of the motor. But ignition work is not our only specialty. We care for all manner of electrical equipment."

TWO-PASSENGER COUPE DESIGNED BY OAKLAND

The Oakland Motor company has announced a two-passenger coupe as the latest addition to its line, according to Neil Edgar, of Edgar and Hays, local Oakland distributors.

Edgar says the new car has been designed and built, from the ground up, to fill a need for a lightweight six-cylinder coupe, compact and attractive. It is built on the regular Oakland chassis. The frame work of the body is staunch and rigid.

According to Edgar the body was designed exclusively for the new coupe and conforms in every detail to the finest coach making.

The Standard of Comparison

Why Buick Cushions "Ride Easy"

Buick cushions are comfortable on all roads because of their "double-deck" springs and resilient hair pads. The upper springs, which are light and easy-acting, yield to the slightest road irregularity. The lower springs are larger and stiffer. They come into play on rough country roads, carrying the passenger in comfort over bumps which cause the ordinary seat to "strike bottom".

Between the springs and the French-plaited leather upholstery are two thick, yielding pads of interlaced hair which positively prevent "lumping".

In Buick seat cushions, as in every other part of the car, is built the quality which has made Buick cars the standard of comparison.

INTRICATE MACHINE RIVAL OF CALENDAR

G. E. FAUCHER AND HIS TIME CALCULATOR

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Birthdays and holidays would fall on the same week day annually, much confusion would be averted, and millions of dollars spent in compiling calendars would be saved yearly if time were reckoned by a device just perfected by G. E. Faucher, of Los Angeles, he claims.

This mechanism, soon to be exhibited before Washington officials in furtherance of efforts to simplify time calculation, divides the year into 364 days, or 13 months of 28 days each.

It consists of an aluminum framework within which astral movements are duplicated in miniature. Propelled by an eight-day motor-clock, the earth and moon revolutions are effected by an intricate series of gears, the whole synchronized with mathematical decision. The earth's orbit is divided into 364 equal segments.

Faucher has been checking its performance for months, and declares it flawless. His invention isn't for sale, but will be used for lecture purposes only.

FREE PAIGE RIDES IS PLAN OF FIRM

With next week scheduled as demonstration week for the Paige sixty-six, Edgar and Hays, distributors, today issued invitations to a large list of local persons asking them to accept rides in the New Series Paige sixty-six at any time during the week.

"We have arranged a series of unusual demonstrations, beginning next Monday, and will give anyone interested a ride in the new machine," said D. Z. Smith, sales manager. "The demonstration will continue the entire week, and we are ready to serve anyone at any hour of the day up to 8 p. m."

REO

Have You Seen—
Have You Driven—
the New closed Reos?

You know Reo cars—have known them since the dawn of the industry—as cars of the highest class, speaking in terms of engineering and mechanics.

Those qualities are present, and in greater degree of course, in these latest Reo models—for Reo engineering and shop practice still leads and shows the way.

But; unless you have seen, ridden in, and yourself driven these new closed Reos, you cannot appreciate the transcendant beauty, comfort and facility of operation.

Reo designers and body craftsmen have outdone themselves in the fashioning and building of these bodies.

Both models—the four passenger coupe and the five passenger sedan—are of full-aluminum construction and in every detail of trimmings and mountings are complete to the last degree.

If you have assumed that, in order to obtain a closed car that would conform to your ideas of luxury and beauty and refined taste, you must pay $5,000 or $6,000—see these new Reos and your delight will know no bounds.

At the new prices, recently announced, these new closed Reos are greater value than even Reo has ever before been able to offer.

INDIANS, PAST AND TODAY, IS THEME

LAGUNA BEACH, June 24.—Laguna Beach now numbers among its educational, artistic and recreational institutions an Indian Exposition.

It opens its doors in the Pomona College Extension building this afternoon. The special art exhibit will be the famous collection of photographic prints of Indian types and studies by Edward S. Curtis.

In his lecture at the exposition this evening, Curtis will talk of the Indian of today as well as of the past.

NEW DODGE COUPE IS FIRST ALL-STEEL CAR

The business coupe, the new product of the Dodge Brothers factory, is the first all-steel closed car ever marketed, according to a statement today by O. A. Haley, local distributor for Dodge Brothers cars.

"In this respect the coupe takes a new and distinct place in automotive history, for it involves an entirely unique principle of coupe body construction," Haley said.

The steel body not only virtually eliminates the problem of limited production, due to the tedious and costly individual workmanship required on wood bodies, but also enables the manufacturers to give the coupe the same lustrous baked enamel finish which has already contributed so much to the reputation of Dodge Brothers open cars. This process in itself will also facilitate quantity production, as an enormous amount of time was consumed heretofore in applying the numerous coats of paint required on wood."

Sales for the week at the Haley agency were as follows: Touring cars to Francis Fischer and Thomas Moddee, Santa Ana and roadsters to E. J. Fenley and W. C. Kenworths, Huntington Beach and Louis Estudillo, Orange.

REPORT PLACEMENT OF 3350 STATE CHILDREN

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Semi annual reports of child-placement in California by the Children's Home society give this state a leading position in welfare work among children of the country, according to Mrs. Jessie Jordan, superintendent of the society, who announced here the receipt of 3372 children from 50 counties of the state since the founding of the society and the placement of 3350 children in 56 counties during the same period.

Los Angeles city and county lead the entire state in the number of abandoned and homeless boys and girls committed to the society for care and placement, with a total of 1990 children received by the home and 1646 children awarded to foster parents. Alameda county is second in the list of counties, with 215 children received and 167 placed in homes. The society's two homes are located in Los Angeles and Oakland.

ARRAIGN ACCUSED

Arraignment of Dennis Weaver, charged with grand larceny, was scheduled to be held at 2 p. m. today before the Superior Judge Z. B. West.

Weaver is accused of stealing oil well equipment, valued at $4000, from the property of the Consolidated Oil company, in the Santa Ana canyon.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Carlos Silvas, charged with forgery, today entered a plea of not guilty, when he was arraigned before Superior Judge R. Y. Williams, who set his trial for July 5 at 10 a. m.

A previous trial of Silvas, on a similar charge, was interrupted when his attorney, A. E. Koepsel, called attention to the fact that the charge on which Silvas was being tried was based on a check other than that concerned in the preliminary proceedings. This irregularity caused dismissal of the charge, after which new proceedings were instituted.

RUTH RENICK

BY FRANCES DEANER.

Can a motion picture actress live the simple life?

Many persons ask this question.

Most persons would answer in the negative, for they have gained such a fixed opinion that picture players, when not working, engage in a continuous round of gayety that it would require considerable evidence to the contrary to convince them they are wrong. It seems to be a belief that is strongly entrenched in the public mind.

Ruth Renick, dainty little star of the silver sheet, is at least one actress who leads the simple life. It is a regular habit with her. Here are a few facts regarding Ruth that give background to my statement.

She has never even seen New York's Broadway and knows nothing of the "night life" and its "lure" which we read so much about. I don't believe Ruth has been as far East even as Chicago, with its famous "Loop district."

She lives quietly in Los Angeles with her brother-in-law and her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Waldron. The former is well-known throughout Orange county through his affiliations with the chili pepper and pimento industry. Ruth's home town is Phoenix, Arizona. The Republican and the Gazette always refer to her as "Phoenix's own Ruth," the whole city seeming to be very proud of her achievements.

She does not smoke.

She does not drink intoxicants.

She retires about 9 o'clock, unless detained on location or at the studio.

She is very fond of music which she studied for several years and her favorite composer is Charles Wakefield Cadman.

Her ideal actress is Maude Adams. She always keeps a photograph of Miss Adams on her dressing table at home and at the studio. And I think her greatest ambition, histrionically, is to play "Peter Pan."

All this, then, you will agree gives Ruth authority to speak on the value of simplicity in living.

"Only Way to Live."

"The wise actress—the one who has her future constantly in mind—probably leads a more cloistered life than her non-professional sister," said Ruth in a recent interview. "The motion pictures are a jealous mistress, you know, and the actress who dissipates even just a little bit does not last very long.

"But I do not live the simple life merely for the sake of my profession; I do so because it seems to be the only way to live; one which will bring no regrets later on. I was raised as a little child on a cattle range in Texas—that may not 'sound' much like a quiet life, but it is: the big open places are restful and there is really nothing complex about life on the range. It impressed me as a child and as I've grown older the desire to live a simple, wholesome life has been paramount with me.

"I know that most persons believe actresses, generally, lead 'wild' lives; that they indulge in never-ending rounds of pleasure-seeking and do not know what it means to live normally. But it is just because they do not know or understand. The main point is most actresses' lives is to get lots of fresh air and sunshine and sleep. Acting for the pictures is hard work; all of us must keep and conserve our strength, and none of us can afford to grow old—in our twenties, at least."

Ruth's new picture, the first and only one to date ever made entirely in the South Seas is to be screened at the Yost next Tuesday night. Owing to contracts made previous to the releasing of "The Fire Bride," which is the title of the production, E. D. Yost, president of the Yost theaters company, is booking the film for Tuesday night, only.

"The Fire Bride" has just been edited and made ready for exhibitors and so many patrons of the Yost, who became Ruth Renick "fans" on the occasion of the opening of the new Yost theater last March, have expressed a desire to see it, that, rather than to keep them waiting until he could have run the picture Mr. Yost made the one-day engagement on the only open date available in many weeks.

MIA MAY

Continental star, who plays the leading role in "The Greatest Truth," coming to the Temple next Monday.

"THREE LIVE GHOSTS" ON TEMPLE SCREEN FOR WEEK-END

"Three Live Ghosts," George Fitzmaurice's picturization of Frederic S. Isham's famous stage play, is due at the Temple today for the week-end. Anna Q. Nilsson and Norman Kerry are the featured players and the cast includes Cyril Chadwick, Edmund Goulding, John Miltern, Clare Greet, Annette Benson, Dorothy Fane and Windham Guise.

The picture, which is said to be a "knock-out," revolves about three buddies, Billy Foster, an American, Jimmy Gubbins, a cockney, and "Spoofy," a shell-shocked soldier whose mind is a blank. All escape from a German prison and return to England as stowaways on Armistice night.

They have been mourned as dead, but prove themselves very live ghosts, indeed, when they appear in London. Comedy and pathos is blended in the picture which was made in England and the scenes include views of Trafalgar Square, showing the Nelson monument, Piccadilly Circus, Westminster Abbey, Whitehall, Downing street, and the famous Limehouse district.

WILLIAM RUSSELL COMES HERE TOMORROW IN 'MONEY TO BURN'

Manager H. E. Yost announces as the feature attraction at the West End tomorrow and Monday the Fox picture, "Money to Burn," with the favorite William Russell as star. This should prove entertainment of the best sort, since Russell's popularity is nation-wide, and the play is based on the story "Cherub Divine," written by Sewell Ford—whose "Shorty McCabe" and "Torchy" tales had the entire country chuckling and laughing some years ago. Sylvia Breamer is the leading lady.

LIVE-WIRE COMEDY SCHEDULED FOR WEST END SILVER SCREEN

There are six married couples represented in the cast of "Is Matrimony a Failure?" the new Paramount special comedy, directed by James Cruze which comes to the West End theater next Wednesday for four days.

As suggested by the title, this is a comedy of matrimonial errors and although the picture presents and discusses in a highly humorous vein, the question, it doesn't attempt to answer it, but closes, as it begins, with a large interrogation point.

The six families are played by the following well-known screen artists: T. Roy Barnes and Lila Lee, Lois Wilson and Walter Hiers, ZaSu Pitts and Arthur Hoyt, Lillian Leighton and Tully Marshall, Sylvia Ashton and Otis Harlan and Charles Ogle and Ehtel Wales. In addition to these there are several other important characters, which make this cast one of the largest assemblages of screen luminaries ever seen.

The stage success, "The Open Door," was the basis for this new comedy, which was scenarized by Walter Woods.

"GLASS HOUSES" A COMEDY OF ERRORS

The hilarious incidents that pursue a newly married couple, as depicted by Viola Dana in her latest Metro production, "Glass Houses," are of such variety that they will serve their purpose in providing capital entertainment. "Glass Houses" is due at the Princess tomorrow.

Miss Dana adds to her long list of admirers with her charming characterization of the role of Joy Duval and Gaston Glass is no less popular as Billy Norton, her husband. When Billy is under the impression that his wife is a notorious crook there is action and complications enough for a dozen photoplays.

HUMAN ELEMENT AS GREAT IN COMEDY AS DRAMA

What is the essence of comedy?

Buster Keaton, who returns to the West End screen next Tuesday in "The Boat," was asked that question the other day.

It's the human element that makes comedy," said Buster. "There can be just as much humanness in a comedy as in a tragedy. The comic is only the other side of the shield of the tragic. A grin is merely the antithesis of a scowl; laughter is but the opposite of tears. If certain human emotions cause the one, the emotions that cause the other, must also be human. Impossibilities never occur in life, and they should not occur on the screen. This obtains in either comedy or drama.

"Then there is the little touch of human nature, the kindly act, the flash of romance, the homely bit of sentiment—things that fit well with humor, but which keep the picture within the bounds of humanity. Above all always be natural. There you have what I believe real comedy."

MARYON AYE

Talented star of the vaudeville stage and silver screen, who tops the week-end bill at the Yost, appearing in person in a musical sketch.

MARYON AYE TO APPEAR IN PERSON AT YOST TONIGHT

Maryon Aye is back in vaudeville!

This statement will bring joy to thousands of vaudeville patrons. It will bring sorrow to as many movie fans. For Miss Aye has been starring in the silent drama for the past two years. In that time she has won a host of admirers and followers and her recent decision to return to her old love has been the cause of no little comment from cinema circles everywhere, it is said.

Miss Aye comes to the Yost theater tonight for the week-end in a brand new vaudeville act which however, has a decided bearing on the picture studios. The plot is set in the inner stages of a motion picture studio and Miss Aye has compiled and will offer some exceptional patter and songs put over a la movie queen.

Miss Aye has toured the Orpheum and Keith circuits and upon a visit to Los Angeles, was lured into the paws of the silent drama. She has decided to take a summer tour of vaudeville until fall when she expects to return to studio land.

Supporting Miss Aye is Irving Grossman, known throughout the land as one of the cleverest of comics and whose voice has caused the attention of musical critics far and wide. A jazz band will also be seen in Maryon's offering.

For some months, Miss Aye played opposite Larry Semon in that comic's screen comedies. She was selected by the "Wampas" as one of the thirteen baby stars of the world and, in addition, has had the honor of signing the first motion picture contract containing the newly inserted 'morality clause'.

Miss Aye was at one time one of Mack Sennett's featured bathing beauties. At that time she won honors for beauty and grace in America and abroad. She traveled East with the original company of Mack Sennett's bathing girls and played one entire season in this capacity on Broadway, New York.

Later the more dramatic side of the movies lured her and until her decision to re-enter vaudeville, she has appeared in emotional roles exclusively. Her act is said to be one of the season's most refreshing and contains 100 per cent ginger from start to finish.

LAUGH STATISTICS A LA HAROLD LLOYD

After looking at motion picture comedies for many years Harold Lloyd has decided it is possible to measure the length, breadth and thickness of merriment. For instance, some funny incidents on the screen are more comical than others, so some means must be employed of measuring laughter.

Harold Lloyd's titillation table is as follows:

Two titters—one giggle.
Five giggles—one equine giggle (horse laugh.)
Two equines—one hyena laugh.
Three hyenas—one snort.
Three snorts—one roar.
Two roars—one howl.
Two howls—one scream.
Twelve screams—one hysteric.
Two hysterics—knock 'em dead.

"Never Weaken," Harold Lloyd's popular three real comedy returns to the West End screen by popular demand tomorrow for a two-days' run. It runs the gamut of merriment, with a full measure of high-powered thrills thrown in.

HAYAKAWA WRITES STORY FOR OWN PLAY

While many stars and directors have been bewailing the lack of stories suitable for the screen, Sessue Hayakawa, noted Japanese-American star, stepped right out and wrote one for himself. Not only did he write it, but he played the star part and made of "The Swamp" one of the brilliant productions of the season. It is produced by R-C Pictures Corporation and will be screened at the Princess Theatre on Tuesday.

Though "The Swamp" marks his first attempt at story writing for photoplays it is by no means his first literary effort. While he was a student at the University of Chicago several years ago, he wrote and produced a number of one act plays, and through these playlets secured his first professional engagement. His last effort at playwriting was a three act drama written for the Japanese stock company of San Francisco. It was hailed by critics of that city as a work of art.
